WOMAN MAY BE ASKED TO RETELL TALE

Mrs. Wiseman Claims She Was Paid by Mrs. McPherson for Role in Case

ARRAIGNED IN COURT

Evangelist, Through Her Mother, Denies Allegations Made in Affidavit

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13.—Mrs. Lorraine Wilson, San Francisco woman, who claims she was paid by Aimee Semple McPherson to masquerade as the sister of "Miss X," mythical occupant of a Carmel bungalow with Kenneth G. Ormiston, to "vindicate" the evangelist, may be asked to tell her story to a grand jury.

"At the district attorney's office here today, it was learned that plans are under way to have Mrs. Wiseman appear before the grand jurors and retell her story."

Mrs. Wiseman was arraigned in court today on charges of passing fictitious checks. After the customary legal procedure, her preliminary hearing was set for Sept. 20.

"Accusations Are Denied"

Mrs. McPherson, through her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, has denied the accusations of Mrs. Wiseman, contained in affidavits to her attorney, S. S. Hahn, and counsel for the evangelist, Roland Rich Woolley.

However, the allegations, even if proven true, would not constitute an illegal act on the part of the evangelist, according to legal authorities at the district attorney's office. Action by the grand jury, when it is impeached, is a remote possibility, it was said.

The McPherson investigation, if it is revived, would merely pave the way for a public statement by the grand jury on whether or not it regards Mrs. McPherson's famous story of kidnapping and imprisonment, true or untrue, it was said.

Accused of injustice

S. S. Hahn, attorney for Mrs. Wiseman, accused Mrs. McPherson of "perpetrating a terrible injustice by dragging Mrs. Wiseman and her family's good name into the Carmel hoax."

Hahn claims Mrs. McPherson instigated the plot to have Mrs. Wiseman pose as one of Ormiston's companions at Carmel to "clear herself of public scandal."

The evangelist was first mentioned in the Carmel incident when district attorney investigators learned that a woman resembling Mrs. McPherson occupied a cottage at the beach resort with the radio operator, May 19-20. Mrs. McPherson disappeared on May 18 at Ocean Park and reappeared six weeks later at Agua Prieta, Mexico.

Charge $300 Paid

Sensational charges that Aimee Semple McPherson had paid her $300 and was to give her a total of $5000 to fake a story of sharing a cottage with Kenneth G. Ormiston at Carmel-by-the-Sea, were made in an affidavit here today by Mrs. Wiseman.

Mrs. Wiseman is held by police on charges of passing worthless checks and her arrest, Friday night, revealed, according to police, that she had perpetrated a hoax on the public by announcing she and her sister, a mythical "Miss X," and not Mrs. McPherson, had occupied the seaside bungalow with the former radio operator of Angelus temple.

Mrs. McPherson, mother of Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Mrs. McPherson, and business manager of Angelus temple, made a brief but categorical denial of the accusations today.

"Mrs. Wiseman came to us a

Shoot to Kill, Order Given Postal Clerks

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—A command to "shoot to kill" has been sent out by the postoffice department to its army of 22,500 railway mail clerks to protect from bandits, even at the cost of their own lives, the millions of dollars worth of treasure handled daily in the U. S. mails. The command, which applies to the thousands of other postal employees, also constitutes a warning to the underworld that the postal service means war, and anyone found attempting to rob the mails may expect a cold lead reception and no mercy.

VAST AREA IN KANSAS UNDER FLOOD WATERS

Heavy Rainfall Causes Streams to Spread Over Lowlands

(By United Press)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 13.—Rivers and streams in eastern Kansas today were spreading for miles over lowlands, inundating farms, highways and railroads and causing enormous property damage.

Flood water swept Burlington, Neosho Falls, Madison and other towns in the Neosho and Verdigris river valleys, following torrential downpours of rain, totaling from eight to 11 inches.

Three lives were lost in the flood-ravaged area of approximately 150 square miles.

Property loss will total more than $2,000,000, it is estimated, and the loss of livestock is reported great.

Little fear is felt for residents of lowlands along the rivers, as ample warning was received of the rising waters.

Scores of farmhouses were damaged by the overflow, while families sought refuge in the uplands.

Relief has been sent from surrounding towns and destitute victims were being cared for by Red Cross units.

Rail Traffic Hampered

Wire communication with the stricken districts was demoralized and rail traffic was hampered. On some branch lines it was at a standstill, due to washouts.

While the crest of the flood was believed past, reports indicated more damage was probable should the rainfall continue today.

Towns along the Neosho river were flooded to a depth of five and six feet Sunday.

ALLEGED HIT-RUN DRIVER IS JAILED

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13.—Accused of failing to stop and render aid, Louis Diehl was jailed here today, following an automobile accident in Belvedere, in which Mrs. J. F. Forth, of 133 North Painter street, Whittier, was seriously injured.

Mrs. Forth was taken to the Murphy Memorial hospital, Whittier, where she is receiving X-ray treatments to determine extent of her injuries.

The woman's husband and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Shepherd, other occupants of the car, escaped without serious injuries.

Diehl and two companions, Virginia Pitts and R. E. Luck, Los Angeles, are said to have abandoned their machine after colliding with the car in which Mrs. Forth was riding.

Johnson, whose office has been the center of many bitter lawsuits by various banking interests and controversial over bank operations, paid a complimentary visit to Governor Richardson, declaring the executive had "worked his way up from poverty to chief executive of the state. He is personally pleased to be relieved of the great responsibilities of his position."

Ensor's automobile, containing the suitcase, and 11 other machines, were destroyed in the fire.

200 ARRESTED IN CONSPIRACY ON MUSSOLINI

General Police Director And Rome Chief Quit After Bombing

(By United Press)

ROME, Sept. 13.—Two hundred persons are under arrest and the general director of police and the chief of police have resigned, as a result of the attempt upon the life of Premier Mussolini, Saturday.

Most of the prisoners will be freed, it was understood, after questioning. Police are trying to learn if the bombing of the premier's car was due to a widespread plot.

Crispo Moncada, general director of police, and Chief of Police Perilli have been replaced by Arturo Boehlin, prefect of the Genoa police, and M. Angelucci, respectively.

According to the newspaper Messagero, the investigation of the attempt to kill Mussolini, although just begun, already has revealed abundant evidence that it was not the isolated deed of a fanatic or anarchist, but the result of an elaborate plot, hatched by political ex-patriates in France, who supplied the bomb with the facilities.

The bomber is Gino Lucetti, 26, an expatriate, long classed by police as a dangerous anarchist.

RUM SHIP WINS IN RUNNING BATTLE

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 13.—A three-hour battle with a rum runner, in which more than 1000 shots were fired, was described by coast guard cutter No. 255, upon its arrival here today.

The fight started off Point Banda, about 60 miles south of this port, when the rum runner, said to have been a San Diego vessel, ignored the cutter's command to "lay to."

The cutter then opened fire and in reply the craft speeded up and began tossing its liquor overboard. The chase lasted three hours, with the cutter peppering away with machine-guns, one-pounders and rifles. The "runner" had made its getaway.

LEAGUE WILL BALLOT ON NINE COUNCIL MEMBERS

(By United Press)

GENEVA, Sept. 13.—The League of Nations today puts in operation its machinery for the election of nine non-permanent members of the League council, thereby solving the last league problem held over from the chaotic March session.

With the council reorganization program to be rethought somewhat today, permitting its adoption by the assembly tomorrow, the formal election of the non-permanent members is expected to be accomplished Wednesday.

Foreign ministers Briand, of France; Chamberlain, of England, and Stresemann, of Germany, are expected to return to their respective capitals immediately after the election, leaving subordinates to represent them at remaining assembly sessions.

The plan of allotment of the non-permanent seats calls for three council members of non-permanent status to surrender their membership annually. The assembly will reserve the right to declare certain nations eligible for re-election.

VOTE COUNT FOR PRIMARY IS COMPLETE

Official Check on Returns From Recent Election in Orange County Finished

LINE UP WITH STATE

With 2 Exceptions, Those Nominated in California Choice of Local Electors

ORANGE COUNTY voted with the rest of the state on party nominations, with the exception of the two major party contests for governor, it was shown today when County Clerk J. M. Backs announced the results of the completed official count, which he is forwarding to the secretary of state.

Barring the second place vote given Lt. Gov. C. C. Young and the defeat of Justus S. Wardwell, Democratic nominee for governor, the county lined up behind all the successful party candidates. Buron Fitts was given a majority vote for lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket. John B. Elliott led Isadore Dockweiler in the Democratic race for the U. S. senate, and Surveyor General W. S. Kingsbury was the winner on each of the four party tickets, including Socialist and Prohibition. Senator Shortridge led in this county, as he did in the state.

Nominated on Three Tickets

Dr. C. D. Ball, of Santa Ana, not only defeated the incumbent, S. C. Hartnaff, of Fullerton, for the Republican nomination for the assembly, but also won the Democratic and Prohibition nominations. Hartnaff received the Socialist nomination, but cannot hold it, since he failed to win the nomination in his own party. The Democratic nominee, Ball, by a 2-to-1 vote. The entire vote was written in, except on the Republican ballot.

In the judicial nominations, Orange county agreed with the state that Chief Justice William H. Wast, of the state supreme court, should be re-elected for both the short and long terms. Associate Justices Jesse H. Curtis and Frederick W. Hauser were leaders in the vote on the two places on the supreme bench to be filled. In the state vote, Associate Justice William H. Langdon led Hauser.

Democratic county voted for Curtis to fill the short term between the expiration of his present term and the beginning of the new term, January 1.

The complete official vote, with the exception of the township contests for justice of the peace and constable, which figures were not available today, follows:

RICHARD MERTON

Star witness for the government in the momentous trial of Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general of the United States, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, Merton, German male, is alleged to have paid the bribe which the defendants are accused of accepting.

STORY OF PLAN TO REGAIN LOST ASSETS BARED

Merton Tells of Desperate Effort to Save Family From Bankruptcy

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Richard Merton was given a quarter of a million dollars as compensation for his work in securing a return of $7,000,000 assets of the American Metal company to the Swiss Metal Securities company, he testified in the Miller-Daugherty trial here today. He said the Swiss Securities concern paid that sum to him.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Richard Merton, active head of the powerful Merton financial interests, of Frankfurt, Germany, today told a dramatic story of how he came to this country, in 1921, in a desperate effort to secure return to his group of the assets of the American Metal company.

Bankruptcy of the Metal bank, of Frankfurt; the Swiss Metal Securities company, of Basel; the Frankfurt Metal trust and the Merton family probably would have followed, had he failed, he said.

Merton, testifying in the trial of Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, made his statements in explaining why he was so necessary in securing return of the property and why he was willing to pay the late John T. King $441,000 "commission" to handle the matter for him.

Another paper was read, written by the president of the Swiss bank, outlining details of the formation of the Swiss Metals Securities company.

Merton, beginning his testimony for today, told of a conversation he had with his brother, Alfred, in 1917, while he was on leave from the German army, regarding the meeting in Basel, Switzerland, at which plans were made to turn over to the Swiss Securities company.

It was evident the defense was building a foundation to show that Merton was acting on legal advice, which had informed him his claim was a legal one.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 13.—Jacob Rosenthal, a U. S. citizen from New York, was held up by bandits, presumably for ransom, today.

The American embassy today requested the foreign office to obtain the capture of the bandits if possible.

Rosenthal was seized yesterday on the road between Guernavaca and Mexico City. Herbert Quick, an American, and party, passed the scene later and were fired upon.

Marines Placed Ashore at Hankow, on Yangtze, to Guard English Interests

(By United Press)

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Dispatches from China today reported that three American gunboats were bottled inside Swatow harbor by mines laid by Cantonese forces.

According to the dispatches, the American commander asked the U. S. legation to protest to the Peking government.

Inasmuch as the Peking government has no power over the Cantonese, any protest in that direction would be futile.

BRITISH MARINES LAND AT HANKOW

SHANGHAI, Sept. 13.—British marines were landed at Hankow, on the Yangtze river, today, to protect British interests in consequence of the increasing anti-British manifestations, resulting from the Cantonese occupation of the Hankow area.

H. M. S. Hawkins, flagship of the British Asiatic squadron, set the marines ashore.

Vice Adm. Alexander Sinclair, British commander-in-chief in Chinese waters, is in command of the Hawkins.

Cincinnati Reds tied the Cardinals for the National league leadership.

The Reds applied the whitewash brush to Brooklyn for the second time in two days at Brooklyn today, Rixey pitching a 4 to 0 shut-out.

The second annual picnic and meeting of the Nova Scotia society, of Orange county, was held Saturday at Newport Beach, with about 125 Nova Scotians present.

Dinner was served at noon and was followed by addresses by J. D. Brown, of Pasadena, former resident of Halifax, and the Rev. G. A. Francis, of Garden Grove, former pastor of the First Baptist church, in Orange. His address was on "The Peculiarities of Nova Scotia."

Francis is president of the county organization. J. Albert Dennis, of this city, is secretary, and A. C. Black, also of Santa Ana, was chairman of the arrangements committee.

Because he could not produce an operator's license when arrested on the San Diego highway last night, R. L. Downs, 21, 680 South Ford boulevard, Los Angeles, was arrested and lodged in the county jail by Officers Cain and Hunt. He will be given a hearing before Justice John Landell.

Two men, one charged with smoking in a national forest and the other charged with leaving a camp fire burning, were dismissed when their cases were brought before Justice Andrew Wilson early today. They were E. Wilson and T. S. Willis. Wilson's case was continued from last week. He was charged with smoking a cigar on the forbidden grounds.

J. Cabillas, 35, charged with being drunk, was arrested late last night by Officers Barnard and Dean and lodged in the county jail. He lives in El Toro.

Charged with speeding 58 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone, Mrs. W. H. Fabry, 714 Fremont avenue, Los Angeles, was arrested late last night by C. J. Cain, state traffic officer. She will appear before Justice John Landell, San Juan Capistrano, next Friday.

J. Moser, 1226 Burnside avenue, Los Angeles, is scheduled to appear in justice court here Friday to answer to a charge of speeding 54 miles an hour at Culver's corner, on the San Diego highway. He was arrested last night by Officer C. J. Cain.

Pete Adams, 36, Escondido, was arrested last night on a drunk charge. It is alleged to be his second offense. The man also is said to have broken a bottle in an alley between French and Spurgeon streets, just prior to the time he was arrested.

JURY MAY QUIZ 'MISS X' SISTER

stranger and she left a stranger," Mrs. Kennedy declared.

"When her story was first told to the newspapers, we wanted to keep it out of print until it could be verified, but were unable to do so."

Mrs. Wiseman's affidavit was made in the presence of her own attorney, S. E. Hahn, and the chief counsel for Mrs. McPherson, Roland Rich Woolley.

Twin Sister Arrives
It was made following the arrival here from Oakland of Mrs. Wiseman's twin sister, Mrs. Viria Kimball. The latter was the woman represented by Mrs. Wiseman as "Miss X," the mythical occupant of the Carmel bungalow.

Mrs. Kimball, indignant when she learned of her sister's arrest and that she had been represented as the "Miss X," of the McPherson mystery, demanded of Mrs. Wiseman that she "tell the truth."

"I want to make a clean breast of the whole thing,"

Then, in the presence of Attorneys Hahn and Woolley, Mrs. Wiseman made her affidavit.

She declared she was paid $300 as "expense money" by Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Kennedy, and that the "balance" was to be given her after she had completed the "job" of posing as the sister of "Miss X," and producing the latter for "identification" and "vindication" of the evangelist.

Mrs. Wiseman said she was approached in San Francisco by a man named Martin and the idea of posing as the sister of "Miss X" first was given her at that time, about July 30.

Following preliminary negotiations with this man, Mrs. Wiseman sent a telegram to District Attorney Asa Keyes, here, she said, asserting her sister was the "Miss X" in the Carmel episode of the McPherson investigation.

Goes to Los Angeles
She then came to Los Angeles and made the final arrangements with Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. McPherson, the affidavit stated, receiving at this time $100, and subsequently $200 additional in "expense money."

Mrs. McPherson remained secluded in her home adjoining Angelus temple today and for the first in weeks refused to be interviewed by newspapermen.

Attorney Woolley went into conference with the evangelist and her mother. He departed an hour later, promising a formal statement for the public by noon.

"There is nothing to it, boys, nothing to it all," said the lawyer. "We've talked things over and I'll fix this thing up all right."

DON'T LOOK LIKE WOMAN DEPONENT
SALINAS, Calif., Sept. 13.—Justice of the Peace Russell Scott, shown a photograph of Mrs. Viria Kimball, of Oakland, said the woman did "not look at all like the woman who was here," referring to the supposed "Miss X," who signed two affidavits before him August 15. The affidavits were prepared before Justice Scott, Sunday morning, August 15, one by Mrs. Viria McDonald Wiseman and the other by the supposed "Miss X." Mrs. Wiseman later said she was the twin sister of the "Miss X."

GRADE CROSSINGS TO BE ELIMINATED

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—The Southern Pacific company, in compliance with an order received Saturday, today started plans for removal of two heavily traveled grade crossings between Los Angeles and Glendale.

One is on the Los Feliz boulevard and the other on the Glendale-Brand boulevard. Each is crossed by several parallel Southern Pacific tracks, a condition of constant hazard to motorists, according to the state railroad commission.

The commission, on complaint of the Los Angeles county grade crossing commission, a semi-official organization, ordered the Southern Pacific company to file, within 120 days, plans for elimination of the crossings.

Plans will be approved, wholly or in part, at a hearing subsequent to the filing. Probable cost of the project is estimated at $1,000,000.

The plan likely to be drawn, according to the railroad commission, would consist of a "barrel" subway, providing passage for the highways beneath the railroad tracks.

There are in Italy 6000 families with more than 20 children, while there are 11 families with more than 30 children.

Your Biggest Dollar

NO DOLLAR that leaves your hand buys so much as the one spent for electricity. The electrical dollar of 1914 is worth $1.08 today, because electricity is cheaper. Your other dollars of 1914 are worth only 61 cents today, because general commodities are higher now.

A great many conditions have contributed to the present low cost of electricity but they all center in that American spirit of initiative which continually produces improved methods of generating electricity and more efficient apparatus for its use.

Electricity works for us so constantly and so quietly that we often forget what an important factor it is in our lives. Yet it is our greatest servant, taking the drudgery out of our lives and costing only a few cents a day.

machine driven by R. C. Harcom.
948 Forty-ninth street, Los Angeles.
The accident occurred at Harding, a small town west of Anaheim, on Lincoln boulevard.

According to a report filed at the sheriff's office by Harcom, he was emerging from a side street when he saw two machines, rapidly approaching the intersection. He attempted to stop his car but was too late, the machine catching the rear fender of the first machine.
This collision served to throw the Harcom machine directly into the second car, occupied by Mrs. Langer and her son. The Langer machine overturned, killing the boy.

Inquest This Afternoon
The body was taken to the Huddle Undertaking parlors, Anaheim, where an inquest will be held this afternoon, Charles C. Brown, coroner, said today.

Mrs. Langer, the only other person injured in the accident, was taken to the Anaheim Community hospital, where she was treated for cuts and bruises. She was discharged from the hospital today.

No arrests were made by officers from the sheriff's office, who made an investigation and reported that in their opinion, the fault did not lie with the driver of either of the other machines.

Two men were arrested on liquor charges following an automobile accident near Stanton, late last night, in which Herman Schacht, Anaheim, was seriously cut about one hand. They were David Quenterez, 38, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, and Ramon Contreras, 37, charged with being drunk. Both live in Wintersburg.

Schacht was taken to Dr. E. E.
Vieland, where, at Garden Grove, and received medical attention. All the tendons in his hand were said to have been severed.

Bail Set at $500
Quenterez was arraigned before Justice Andrew Wilson today on the felony charge of driving while intoxicated. His examining trial was set for Thursday, September 23, at 10 a. m., and bail was set at $500.
Contreras was fined $25 on a charge of being drunk.

The two men were arrested by Officers Cain and Hurd, who answered a call to the scene of the accident from the sheriff's office.

A woman and a child, riding in the Schacht machine, were unhurt, despite the fact that the machine turned over after the collision with the Quenterez car.

A small boy, named Tatum, residing in Santa Ana, was slightly injured at 5:30 p. m., Saturday, when he was knocked from his bicycle by a machine driven by R.
C. Edwards, 2139 Greenleaf avenue, near the city limits on Main street, according to a report filed at the sheriff's office.

Edwards was coming into Santa Ana at the time, he reported, when the boy darted in front of his machine. Edwards told the boy to his home, where medical aid was administered.

PRESIDENT

'BIGGER AND BETTER' IN ALL DEPARTMENTS TO BE SLOGAN FOR COUNTY'S FAIR OF 1927

With the tenth annual Orange County fair recorded on the books of the Orange County Fair association as the biggest success in its history, directors of the association were to meet this afternoon to hear reports from President Harry Lake, Manager J. R. Hunt, department heads and other officials and to make initial plans for making the 1927 fair bigger and better in every respect than the one which closed Saturday night.

President Harry Lake said today that a statement concerning attendance and receipts would not be ready for publication until Tuesday.

At the fair grounds today, it was said that the future of the pageant, "The Birth of an Empire," was uncertain and that there was a well defined movement on foot to stage the pageant, or a slightly different version of it, in a natural amphitheater in Orange County park. The pageant is to be one of the matters discussed this afternoon.

Tents Being Taken Down

The big tops were being taken down today. All exhibits were regaled horses were shipped Sunday morning to Los Angeles, from whence they will be shipped to the Ventura County fair.

If plans for the fair of 1927, as now contemplated, are carried out, the eleventh annual event will eclipse any fair in Southern California, it was said. An enlargement of the race track to half mile, to permit harness and running races of a high caliber, and leasing of more ground for automobile parking purposes are among the improvements proposed.

"The success of the 1926 fair, which was the greatest county fair ever held, was due to the untiring efforts and the co-operation of the directors and those in charge of the various departments," said J. R. Hunt, manager.

Few Mistakes Made

"Very few mistakes were made and everything was handled in an efficient and business-like manner. Too much credit cannot be given Harry Lake, president of the Orange County Fair association, and those directors who gave weeks of their time unselfishly to advance the interests of Orange county."

"The Orange County fair has been placed upon a higher level than ever before and now is in an enviable position insofar as county fairs are concerned. We have every reason to believe that the 1927 fair will be one of the greatest ever held in the entire west and plans for the same now are being made."

"Those who have, year after year, put their names on the dotted line to guarantee fairs, have the satisfaction, this year, of realizing the fact which they have so long cherished, that an Orange County fair could be made a success, both from educational and financial standpoints."

"Personally, I wish to take this opportunity of thanking everyone for his or her courteous treatment and untiring efforts. It is, indeed, a pleasure to do business with such an ideal organization."

Capital Letter

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The question of primary election expenses will loom very importantly in congress next winter.

The question of regular November election expenses will loom, too, if any great amount of money is spent in the course of the present campaign. The probabilities are, however, that this will be an unusually economical campaign, not an expensive one. Election expenses are a liability just now, not an asset.

With the Lorimer and Newberry cases still in mind, candidates for congress know they mustn't spend too much on their post-primary campaigns, anyway. If they do, they're aware that they're liable not to get their seats after they've paid for them.

But the argument has been that primary expenses are none of congress' business—that primaries are elections for the respective state legislatures to regulate, not the national legislature.

However, bills—lost in the adjournment jam but sure to come up in December—are in now, by which congress does undertake to regulate primaries.

They'll be fought on the ground that they're an attempt at federal interference in state affairs, but it will take a pretty nifty congressman to go clear to the mat against them, after the Pennsylvania and Illinois scandals. Maybe they'll be passed and the supreme court will knock them out. The supreme court is pretty impervious to public opinion, but congress isn't.

They'll come up, anyway, and make trouble.

Primary nominations are sure to be bitterly attacked.

Still, the general trend, in the last few weeks, seems to have been somewhat in their favor. All who originally believed in them continue to believe in them. Not all who formerly stood pat for the convention system want to go back to it.

Primaries have not made for statesmanship—the old kind, which disregarded public opinion. It's made for politicians who keep their ears mighty close to the ground. They act cowardly, but at least they're responsive.

The row over primary expenditures has been confined thus far, to senatorial candidates.

It may break out in the House of Representatives too, next winter.

A candidate for representative doesn't spend as much on his campaign as a candidate for senator does, partly because it isn't worth quite as much and partly because, in most districts, he hasn't as large a territory to spend it in.

Nevertheless, he can spend a good deal, and, if he has, it may be inquired into. Nothing is quite so contagious as investigations.

As to the investigation angle of the proposition:

What has next winter's session of congress—the tail-end of the 69th congress—got to do with elections to the 70th?

It seems as if "nothing whatever" was the answer, but quite a few authorities hold otherwise. Their contention is, that a minute a senator or a representative is declared elected, congress has a right to pass on the validity of his election.

PRESIDENTS OF U. S. DEVOTED TO SPORT LIFE

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—How presidents amuse themselves concerns a large part of the general public much more directly than how they stand on tariff reform or what they do for farmers' relief.

To this eccentricity of the public mind—call it curiosity, if you like—may be attributed the four pounds of importance recently attached to a certain pike suddenly reeled in from the obscurity of an Adirondack lake to country wide renown. The president, who had not angled since boyhood days, when he took his pole and a can of worms he had dug himself and squatted down beside a New England stream, is fast becoming an accredited fisherman.

The White house's great devotee of rod and reel, hook and line was Grover Cleveland. Around Hop Brook in the Berkshires they remember yet the stout man with a mustache and a little white hat tilted over his eyes seated on a shady bank or tipping one end of a skiff.

Devoted to Hunting

Many a summer day saw him shooting plover in the marshes of Cape Cod in the duck hunting season. Back Bay, Princess Anne County, Va., was his favored resort. The president found unending satisfaction in getting ready days ahead, in calculating the wind and weather, even in starting at the cold, bleak dawn. As a fisherman his enthusiasm was even more enduring.

All of the presidents had their pet diversions, ranging from mountain climbing to literary work. Tyler was a skillful performer on the violin. Jefferson was a fiddler, too—while attending William and Mary college he performed with the talent of Williamsburg at Lieut. Gov. Francis Fauquier's weekly musical parties. Mr. Coolidge likes moving pictures, comedies particularly, and Wilson enjoyed vaudeville.

The best way to watch presidents play, naturally, is to follow them in vacation time.

Whenever they go for a change, however, presidents have never been able to get entirely away from the public eye. Word pictures have come down of gala days at Mount Vernon when his master was the genial country gentleman as well as the soldier and president; and whole reels of motion pictures have been shown of Plymouth Notch and a president making hay. Mr. Coolidge's grim pitching on his ancestral acres, moreover, was not the only example of a president at such a pursuit. Twenty years before another turned out in the hay field, joking with the hired men, rallying them to double their efforts before the coming of rain, shouting to the horses and waving to the reporters by the fence. Thus Roosevelt made hay at Sagamore Hill years before the country stopped to behold Coolidge helping to get in the crop.

Many of the presidents held on, after a fashion, to their boyhood sports on the farm. Others found substitutes for the diversion of youth, and a fortunate thing it was. For was not Andrew Jackson, when he came to Salisbury at the age of 13, said to be the "most exciting, rollicking, game-cocking, horse-racing, card-playing, mischievous fellow" that ever came to town? And was not Abraham Lincoln criticized for being fond of horse racing and cockfights? Jackson took a final fling at dissipation, it is said, when he staked his mare, his sole remaining possession, in a game of "rattle and snap" and won. Lincoln, too, early turned from any possibility of idle ways, but one diversion of his youth he never gave up. At the tensest moment he could always spin an amusing yarn.

Passion With Washington

Washington as a boy was a darling horseman, a good wrestler and a good swimmer. When he grew up dancing and loo competed with outdoor sports in his entertainment; but he never lost his love of hunting, which was almost a passion with him, according to some of his biographers.

Altogether different in his tastes was Jefferson. He was too strict in personal conduct, according to some, to use tobacco, to dance or to play cards. But Monticello overflowed with guests, especially in the summertime when friends of the family in their equipages were on their way to the springs. Always they were hospitably received and lavishly entertained.

Jefferson could ever find plenty of diversion, too, in the fields and woods. Roosevelt, the big game hunter and outdoor man, was not the only naturalist president.

Many of the presidents have been great walkers. Lincoln particularly loved to wander and talk with his little son, Tad. With recent presidents, walking has become more of a task. Roosevelt enjoyed everything in the form of exercise, going so far as to set up a gymnasium in the White house. This Mr. Taft maintained and thither he resorted with his physical trainer every morning at 7—not for the fun of it, like his predecessor, but for the necessity of restricting his weight.

All the presidents who were soldiers or farmers' sons first were as much at home in the saddle as they were at the desk but the real equestrian was General Grant. Grant's love of horses dates even before the time when he first called a horse by name.

Horse Figures in Play

The horse still figures to a considerable extent in the recreation of presidents. Roosevelt as the Rough Rider, everybody knows. McKinley rode to some extent; Taft on horseback was a familiar figure in Washington parks, and Harding was something of a horseman.

In recent years, however, golfing has loomed larger than riding as a presidential sport. In his gray flannel trousers (before the days of plus fours) striped shirt with long sleeves, green Scotch cap and high hobnailed doeskin shoes, Taft might be spotted on the links playing a quiet, deliberate game.

President Wilson was something of a golfer, too—staunch enough to play in a snow flurry or rain; but as the burdens of office increased, he chose rather to attend baseball games. Harding had the reputation of being the best golfer among the presidents. He took it up long after he entered public life.

About the future, of course, one can never tell. Mr. Coolidge pitched into fishing with no preliminary announcement; he may give the public another shock. Perhaps when he has attained proficiency in the Adirondack lakes, he will try his hand on the Chevy Chase links.

Auto Ride Ends When Driver Is Lodged In Jail

Joe Harrison, 26, negro, went automobile riding yesterday with a woman friend and was returning home before officers learned that he was driving his machine without an operator's license.

The discovery was made at 11 o'clock last night, so Harrison, who is a Los Angeles bank clerk, spent last night in jail.

Today he is preparing to spend several more nights in the same place for when he was taken before Justice Andrew Wilson today, a sentence of five days was meted out to him.

When Harrison was arrested last night, his car was held by Officers Hurd and Sawyer, who made the arrest, and his "lady friend" was forced to ride a street car back to Los Angeles. She was on hand again this morning, however, to see Harrison go back into the jail house.

It Is Sterling

—no more can be said.

Of all things most desired what would it be? Sterling silver, we think. Because it is so beautiful—so useful? Yes! Because it lasts forever? Again, yes! But most of all because sterling is so genuine—so really fine a thing.

Somewhere there is a girl who hopes yet wonders if we will guess. Shall we give her sterling? Let's do—that our dowry of affection may mean all things to her, always.

University Section To Resume Activities

The study of the university section of Ebell during the past year proved so instructive that the class at its closing meeting in the early summer prevailed upon E. M. Nealley to continue the lectures. "The Problem of Evil" as presented by Mr. Nealley held the attention of the class for months and was of engrossing interest.

Mr. Nealley presented this profound problem in a most telling way, giving illustrations, extracts, the concentrated result of his own lifetime of study and experience so graphically and withal in such plain, simple manner that all could grasp the meaning. It is a wonderful thing to have a mind stored with the great educational truths, to have at call the marvelous works of the intellectual world, the thoughts of poets, sages, philosophers, teachers and writers; but it is also quite important to present such knowledge so pupils may understand and keep interested, eager to go on and on in this most fascinating study. Mr. Nealley has the happy faculty of doing this, and therein lies the secret of his successful teaching.

It was with regret the class disbanded for the summer vacation, and now with renewed interest and with many new members will take up the line of work decided on as herewith given. The officers re-elected for the year are Mrs. J. T. Wilson, leader; Miss Minnie C. Childs, secretary and treasurer.

In connection with the course the following books will be recommended for reading: "The Making of the Human Mind," by John Herman Randall Jr.; "Foundations of the Universe," by M. Luckesh; "The Story of Philosophy," by Will Durant. The secretary will be glad to have the names of new members as soon as possible in order that they may have the advantage of every lecture.

PETROLEUM IN FISH PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—According to Prof. J. N. Macfarlane, of the University of Pennsylvania, the true source of the world's petroleum lies in the numberless schools of fish that swim the ocean. The mossbunker, a small fish which exists in enormous schools, is one of the principal sources of supply, he says.

First Annual Style Show Attracts Crowd to Scene

AYS of white light, directed against a great platform hung in royal purple, succeeded in turning night into day at the Golden West Fur Farm on North Main street Saturday night, when the Fur Farm's first annual fashion show was presented before a crowd which ebbed and flowed until it was estimated that several thousand people saw some part of the evening's delightful program.

Instituted primarily to display the beautiful garments fashioned at the fur farms from the skins of rabbits raised in Orange county, the style show developed into a triangular affair in which gowns and hats were featured with wraps, the Van Antwerp store offering smart fall fashions, and Madame Marie Louise displaying her French creations in head-gear, with the furs.

A searchlight sweeping the boulevards and skies, attracted much attention and when mystified motorists arrived at the scene, they found it brilliantly lighted from huge klieg lights. The platform was erected before the stucco buildings in Spanish style which form business offices, show rooms and the housing quarters of the plant and its resident manager, G. U. Carter.

Music formed a part of the program and was furnished by the Packard Six orchestra. To the strains, the quintette of beautiful girls modeling the garments, slowly paced across the platform, exhibiting the different features of their costumes. The models were from Los Angeles, the plan to have them all from Orange county, having miscarried. The five represented as many types of beauty and graced the exquisite garments they wore. They modeled regularly at the Coconut Grove, at Blackstone's and at an exclusive Santa Monica Beach club.

Luxurious Garments Shown
The fur garments shown varied from scarf or choker style to the most elaborate afternoon and evening cloaks. One of special beauty was of soft gray quite as lovely as squirrel and far less perishable. Mink fur was so perfectly counterfeited as to be almost beyond belief. Lustrous and elegant was a cloak of apparent seal skin, its surface reflecting the brilliant lights like a mirror. Sleeves were in a variety of form, but always generously fashioned to allow ample space for the voluminous sleeves of present day frock styles.

Little gasps of admiration greeted the evening wraps of exquisite white fur, some with black fox collars, rising luxuriously around the face. Skins were matched and shaped to give circular effects and a bewildering variety of styles offered satisfaction to every taste. Linings were especially beautiful, offering a variety of brocades, cut velvets and soft Canton crepes.

Beneath these luxurious garments were worn the smartest of gowns from Van Antwerp's, while completing the costumes and harmonizing with both gown and cloak were the smart hats from Madame Marie Louise.

Fascinating Gowns
Worn with jaunty short coats of fur, were clever little sport costumes, each with its saucy capelet in identically the same tint or else in dashing contrast. With the long coats were worn extremely lovely afternoon gowns of the autumn's rich materials and colors.

Brilliant evening gowns peeped from the rich coats. Noteworthy were the highly ornamented sleeves in full flowing fashion, indeed the Vionnet sleeve was in evidence in practically all the frocks for formal afternoon wear. Smart little boleros too were popular as were the tiered skirts. One especially lovely creation of velvet, soft and pliable as chiffon, combining all three popular features, was created in Chanel red and with mink coat and bewitching hat to harmonize, adorned a lovely golden blonde model.

Removing the fur wraps after they had been displayed, the models revealed the exquisite gowns alone and their harmonizing hats. In an explanatory talk by M. W. Meek, president of the Golden West Fur Farms company, attention was called to the fact that the gowns and hats were selected from stock in Van Antwerp's store and the hat shop of Madame Marie Louise, and were not ordered for the occasion. They are all to be found today in their respective shops, and are designed to attract critical buyers among Santa Ana's femininity as are the exquisite fur creations of the Fur Farms.

Numerous Farms
The local plant of the Fur Farms has attracted a great deal of interest since its opening less than a year ago. Mr. and Mrs. George U. Carter are courteous in their attention to visitors and welcome those who wish to look over the plant. It is one of nine similar ones in the Southland, others being at Azusa, Rosemead, Girard, Arcadia, Los Angeles, Reseda, Long Beach and Fullerton.

The style show of Saturday night, was the official opening of a week of showing and sale of smart garments in fur, and will be followed by a similar opening style show and sales week each year. It attracted the interest not only of Orange county but of hunters from other points including Los Angeles and different cities of the Southland.

Fiftieth Anniversary Of Church Society Made Memorable

To celebrate the golden anniversary of the Woman's Missionary society of Westminster Presbyterian church invitations were issued by that organization to every sister society of Orange county. Accepting the courtesy, Mrs. H. A. Allen, president of the Woman's Missionary society of Santa Ana First Presbyterian church accompanied by a large delegation of members motored to that pleasant community last Friday morning.

In honor of the event the church was artistically decorated with golden glow and masses of fern which, placed against the dark woodwork and beneath the softened light of stained glass windows, made an inspiration of golden color beautiful and appropriate to the occasion.

Mrs. R. W. Jones of El Modena, presiding presbyter, invited the officers of presbyterian and presidents of missionary societies to occupy the platform, so that all could know "who is who" in missionary circles. She introduced the Reverend R. A. Weld, pastor of the Westminster church as leader of the devotional period. Taking as his theme the narrative of Jonah, Mr. Weld forcefully portrayed the remarkable experience of the prophet and his final acceptance of command, making as the crux of appeal, the sacrificial giving of sons and daughters to the mission cause.

In the interest of the church publications, Mrs. Leonore Ward, secretary of literature, discussed the excellent qualities of three periodicals adapted to every age and recommended their patronage. Mrs. Martha Clingan of Los Angeles, secretary of National Missions, gave an interesting synopsis of the different activities of this department in its widely diverging fields, expressing the hope that "America the beautiful, might crown the good with brotherhood from sea to shining sea."

Mrs. Jones presented Mrs. Gray, former missionary to Nanking, China, who related many experiences that occurred in that far country and recited with much charm the pathetic "Parable of the Bamboo." Mrs. Hawk of Pasadena, presbyterian secretary, expressed the desire of the assembly in the Westminister missionary society for its fifty years of efficient service. "Press forward" was the watchword she suggested for further endeavor.

At the noon hour the daintily appointed dining tables in the church hall aglow with silver and autumn flowers were loaded with the "finest of the wheat" in culinary art. Reports from each society were given during this period.

The afternoon session was opened with singing led by Mrs. Weld and followed by the devotional exercises conducted by Mrs. David Thomas, presbyterian president. "Spiritual Advance" was the subject with which this eloquent speaker held her audience in almost breathless attention for more than an hour. Among other jewels of thought she said, "There are four chimes in our call to service: prayer, power, personality, program." With consummate skill she rang the chimes of each requirement and in closing paid a loyal tribute to the Westminster society in its unswerving chime of dollars falling into the blessing boxes through the past half century.

Mrs. N. B. McCoy then read the history of the society from its inception, February 19, 1876, following down the years to the destruction of the church by fire; to its greater rebuilding and of its notable galaxy of recruits who have gone to mission fields; of its ultimate success in every phase of endeavor.

Mrs. Jones introduced Dr. Byram of Kennedy hospital, Korea. This talented woman lifted the veil of mystery that shrouds the Oriental home life and glimpsed intimate pictures of its superstitions and pagan beliefs; of its pitiful romances and trials of native Christian young people.

The Ladies Glee club of Westminster led by Mrs. Weld, favored with two beautiful numbers. A vote of thanks was tendered the Westminster society for its delightful hospitality and entertainment on this golden anniversary day.

Winter Activities Of Ebell Section Are Launched

IGNALLING the opening of their club year's activities, the fourth household economics section of Ebell society met Friday for a delightful luncheon at the home of their leader, Mrs. Charles Mitchell, 438 South Sycamore street, where Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Neal Beisel and Mrs. C. H. Lurker greeted them as hostesses.

A decided autumnal effect was attained in decorations, especially those of the luncheon tables where pine cones nestled in oak leaves, held tall yellow tapers, and place cards were tucked in tiny acorn sprays. Baskets of yellow roses were used throughout the room. The luncheon menu offered such delicious dishes as stuffed bell peppers, baked potatoes, combination salad, hot rolls and jelly, Bavarian cream, lady fingers and coffee.

Vacation experiences were given in answer to roll call and many were the travel tales recounted. Several members had toured the Yosemite, some were in the east and others drove as far north as Vancouver while of course the nearer beach and mountain resorts all had their patrons. Accounts of the various trips and outings offered one of the most interesting hours imaginable.

Interesting in another fashion, were the reports of secretary and treasurer which showed an unusually successful past year from both financial and social standpoints, and augured an equally pleasant year to come. Enjoying the hospitality of the Mitchell home and the three hostesses, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Beisel and Mrs. Lurker, were Miss Mary Thompson, Mrs. Gibson, a cousin of Mrs. E. U. Dickinson and a guest of the section, and Mesdames J. M. Backs, R. E. Coulter, F. E. Moore, Norbert E. Lentz, S. M. Padias, James Workman, W. Verne Whitson, J. W. Taylor Jr., George Goodwin, Emory L. Peacock, E. U. Dickinson, J. E. Clark, E. C. Erwin, R. E. Langley, T. D. Knights, H. E. Myers, O. H. Umberham, Charles L. Johnson, George R. Richardson and S. J. Hales.

Pianist to Open Local Classes

Austin Roy Keefe, American concert pianist, will be an addition to musical and social circles in Santa Ana, having made arrangements to be here twice a week, using the studio of Madame Budrow in the Greenleaf building, and later planning to establish a home here with his parents, who are now in the east.

Mr. Keefe is an artist well known in New York and Philadelphia, where he has given many recitals and appeared with symphony orchestras. He has studied with some of the world's greatest masters, being a Leschetizky exponent and also one of the most modern virtuoso technic.

The pianist has a varied repertoire from the severest classics to the ultra modern style. He also writes for many musical magazines, including the Etude and has had published a noteworthy essay on Paderewski's Chopin program.

Critics have named the young pianist a gifted composer and teacher, who numbers among his personal friends many of the great artists, including Paderewski, who gave him many valuable suggestions. Since coming west to make his home, he has appeared in the Majestic theater in Los Angeles and in the Majestic theater with the Symphony orchestra in San Francisco. He will teach in Santa Ana on Tuesdays and Fridays and will soon appear in public here.

SUN DIALS POPULAR

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Sun dials are coming into vogue again. The romance of antiquity surrounds them, and they have lived over into this because of their beauty and associations. In the old days every dial carried its message, such as "The longest day must end," "Make hay while the sun shines," "Be true as the dial to the sun," and "Improve each shining hour."

Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—"After having my first baby, I lost weight, no matter what I did. Then a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 93 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."—Mrs. M. RUSSINOWA, 10004 Nelson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

If some good fairy should appear, and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose? Health? It's a transient thing that brings a bit of trouble. Happiness? It's an elusive thing which we keep by giving away. Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy and surely health is cause enough for happiness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you better health.

Unless the diet of children contains a perfectly balanced, correctly prepared food which will act as a reminder—unfailing as a good alarm clock—their health will quickly suffer.

Yet, their food must also be appealing if the full value of it is to be absorbed into the system.
Because Roman Meal contains the healthful body-building berries of entire wheat and rye, cut into little granules—porous, easily digested, with just enough bran to perform the necessary functions of roughage, relieved through healthful and nourishing flaxseed, product of flaxseed, it contributes tremendously to perfect health and the enjoyment of all that is worth while. QUEEN WILL BE SELECTED FOR AIRPLANE MEET

A "Queen of the Air," elected by popular vote among Orange county girls, will represent the Santa Ana Air club in connection with the second annual World Flight Commemoration meet, to be held in Southern California, September 26 under the auspices of the National Aeronautical association. It was announced today by Berle E. Morthland, commodore of the Santa Ana Air club.

The winner in the contest will be given a ride in the pathfinder ship, which will carry Eddie Rickson, William Cryer, mayor of Los Angeles, Admiral Moffatt and other notables, around the course.

Arrangements were completed today for the contest. One candidate already has been advanced for the honor. She is Miss Maxine Wilson, of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce. It is expected that more than a score of entrants will be nominated from all sections of the county.

Closing Date Set
Closing date for casting votes has been set for 12 o'clock Thursday night of next week.

George Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce; Mason Yould, president of the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Stanley Clem, one of the air club members, will act as judges in counting the votes. Members of the air club will have the tickets for sale. In addition, arrangements are to be made for placing them in drug stores of Santa Ana.

Will Make Circuit
The pathfinder ship, in which the "Queen of the Air" will ride, is to start from Clover field, Santa Monica, making a circuit of Long Beach, Santa Ana, Arlington, Alhambra and back to Santa Monica. The air meet, which is held in observance of the success of American aviators in encircling the world, will be entered by approximately 100 airmen, including army and navy flyers.

Santa Ana, as one of the ports of call, will entertain thousands of spectators at Eddie Martin's field on South Main street. A meeting of the committees in charge of the program at the Santa Ana field held a luncheon meeting today in Ketter's cafe. Details for a special exhibition program in the morning at the airport, were considered.

Mikado Chorus to Wear Oxford Bags

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Encouraged, perhaps, by the success of a modern dress "Hamlet," London proposes to do "The Mikado" in Oxford bags. The new scenery and dresses, which include a species of Oriental Oxford bags to be worn by the male members of the chorus, have been designed by Charles Richetta, who did the decorations and dress for "St. Joan" and "Henry VIII," recently produced by Sybil Thorndike.

WILL MARRY DOCTOR
NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—A society girl is to marry a doctor who is suffering in a hospital from blood poisoning contracted from a charity patient. Miss Adele Bowne Carpenter, sister-in-law of Consuelo Vanderbilt Smith's mother, is engaged to Dr. Robert E. Brennan, who was brought up in Louisville.

Income Tax Payments Are Now Due

The third quarterly payment of 1926 income taxes will be delinquent after Wednesday, September 15. In case of such delinquency, the whole amount of the tax unpaid must be paid upon notice and demand.

A statement has been mailed to the last known post office address of every taxpayer in the sixth collection district but failure of the taxpayer to receive this notice does not relieve him, under the law, for failure to make payment when due.

During summer months, the office of the internal revenue collector has been closing daily at 4 p.m. On and after Sept. 15, the closing hour will be 4:30 p.m., except Saturdays, when the cashier's office will close at 12 o'clock noon.

PRESS AGENT HEAVILY FINED ON RUM COUNTS

H. H. Ainsworth, 47, Santa Ana press agent, arrested Saturday night at the Orange county fair, after he is alleged to have raised a disturbance there and after officers are alleged to have taken a bottle, which contained intoxicating liquor, from him, today was fined $50 on a drunk charge and $100 on a charge of possession of liquor, when he was brought before Justice Andrew Wilson.

A friend of Ainsworth, H. A. Perry, Long Beach, charged with being drunk and arrested at the same time, was fined $25. Ainsworth will spend one day in the county jail for every dollar of the fine, providing he does not pay, according to a ruling of Judge Wilson.

Following his arrest and while he was being booked at the jail, Ainsworth is alleged to have freely given his ideas on how police and fire departments could be improved.

S. A. Sales Force Wins In Contest

A. T. Riley, manager of Schluter's Santa Ana branch, located in the Grand Central building, has placed his sales organization in front place in the Maytag washing machine sales contest over 23 Schluter branches in Southern California.

For this good work, Riley has been given a trip to the Maytag factory, in Newton, Ia., with all expenses paid. He will leave here September 24.

The victory was achieved by Riley's sales force of eight men, each of whom have received a substantial cash bonus. "The result of our intensive campaign," said Riley, "shows a healthy business condition in Santa Ana, because we secured a greater volume here during the life of the contest than did several of our branches located in Southern California towns of much greater population. Business is on the up-grade here."

Dachshund Now Rage In Britain

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The lowly dachshund, banned from England during the World war, is once more in style. Dachshunds are being imported from Germany, and the craze threatens to eclipse the popularity of the police dogs or Alsatians.

Woman, 98 Dies; 200 Descendants

FOOD WINS VOTE
HONOLULU, Sept. 13.—Hawaiian natives anxiously are looking forward to the coming fall elections and to the "luau" that will precede them. A luau is a native feast, where convention is thrown aside and orators orate as the guests eat. All the political parties rely upon these methods to put over their campaigns, and the strident music and hula dancing always prove to be successful vote getters.

COMING TO THIS?
GLASGOW, Sept. 13.—Tailors here have announced their new fall styles for men. For street wear, they recommend: A stiff hat, crown from four to five inches high and the brim modeled something like an automobile fender. The suit is blue serge, double-breasted, the coat very short and loose at the shoulders and the trousers very loose and flappy, their bottoms about three inches above the shoe tops.

PAINT MELLON'S PICTURE
LONDON, Sept. 13.—Andrew W. Mellon, who is quoted by a journalist as saying he has not seen the slightest sign of any lack of prosperity in Europe, presumably is contributing some more to that prosperity by having his portrait painted here.

COUNTY HEALTH CAMP CLOSED FOR SUMMER

The children's open-air health camp on the Irvine ranch, in the Santiago canyon, is silent today, as the camp was closed on Saturday and the children taken to their homes preparatory to entering schools today.

Mrs. Amelia A. Meagher, camp "mother," is busily engaged in storing the equipment, after which she will take a two weeks' rest before entering into the annual Christmas seal work.

The camp this year was a success, owing to the change in the site, there being more room, better equipment and buildings and more accessibility to cities. The children responded readily to the health program, and returned home carrying more than 300 pounds in additional weight, with little bodies well-browned from the rays of the kindly sun, and with rosy cheeks and good appetites.

The children were taken to the Orange County fair every afternoon, running around in their "sunshine" suits and telling the public of their camp and of the work which is being done for them under the auspices of the Orange County Tuberculosis Association.

At the recent meeting of the executive board and advisory council of the association, held in the office of the president, Dr. John Wehrly, it was believed that more personal contact should be made with the citizens of the county.

Many persons visited the camp this summer, have assisted with money and equipment and have been pleased and surprised at the accomplishments in the short space of time while the limited funds made possible.

Ways and means to meet persons during the coming seal sale will be mapped out, as a large sum will be needed this year to carry on the work and pay for the new buildings erected this year, $3000 having been borrowed for the latter purpose.

The camp was made possible this summer by the donations of various organizations and individuals, county appropriation having been denied. Parents who were financially able paid expenses of their children.

Hot Dog Stands Called Blotches On Road Scenery

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The haunts of the seductive hot dog have desecrated the highways of the nation to such an extent that the American Automobile association has launched a countrywide campaign to restrict the operations of vendors along the roadsides. In an effort to restore the beauty along the highways, officials in every state were requested by the association to "formulate plans whereby the thousands of unwashed, unpainted and insanitary hot dog stands and lunch counters would be brought under decent regulation.

MITCHELL NOT CANDIDATE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—Billy Mitchell has refused to become a candidate for president of the National Aeronautic association. The association's convention has been informed by a delegate that the navy would not permit him to have the job, anyhow.

CONTRACT FOR WELL MAY BE GIVEN TONIGHT

The city council is expected, at its meeting, tonight, in the council chambers, to make final award of the contract for drilling a new water well on the property on North Bristol street recently acquired by purchase from C. N. Hood.

Four bids were submitted at the meeting of the body last Monday night and were referred to Water Superintendent Walter Wray for investigation.

The council contemplates a 20-inch well with a depth of 500 feet or more. It is the opinion of the superintendent that a good water-bearing strata will be encountered at 500 feet, but it is possible the first well on the tract will be drilled deeper in order to determine whether a larger producer may result from the greater depth. City officials are banking on a production of 250 to 300 inches by the new well.

GAS SOAP BUBBLES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The Washington bureau of standards is studying poisonous gas now by blowing it into soap bubbles. Steel containers heretofore have made it impossible to note the action of the gases and to photograph them. They say that theories regarding the chemical changes are being revolutionized.

AMPLIFIER TO ENABLE MANY TO HEAR TALK

It was stated today that those who will not attend the Lions luncheon Thursday noon, but who want to hear Mrs. Almee Semple McPherson when she speaks to the Lions and their guests at that time may do so by congregating on St. Ann's lawn at 12:50. An amplifier is to be installed so that those on the lawn may hear Mrs. McPherson's address.

Mrs. McPherson is to talk before the Santa Ana Lions club on "Divine Healing."

It was pointed out that Mrs. McPherson's visit to Santa Ana is to have no relation whatever to controversies or differences of opinion there may be concerning her disappearance from Los Angeles and any incidents that have followed her reappearance.

"Mrs. McPherson," said C. S. Crookshank, president of the Lions club, "is to come before the club to be given an opportunity to speak upon a subject of interest. Her appearance before the club does not mean that the club either approves or disapproves of her actions in relation to any matter. The club neither approves nor disapproves of her doctrine of divine healing. It has long been the custom of the club to bring before it speakers who are prominent in public life."

"For instance, recently the club heard Senator Samuel Shortridge, who was engaged in a red hot campaign. He was allowed to say whatever he had to say in relation to his campaign. Certainly his appearance did not in the slightest commit the club to Senator Shortridge's candidacy, to his views or to his personal conduct. This, throughout, has been our attitude toward the visit of Mrs. McPherson, and will remain so."

DRIVER IS JAILED FOLLOWING CRASH

Charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, W. H. Rush, 38, watchman in Garden Grove, was arrested last night by Officers Elliott, Holmes and Lutz, near 1710 West Eighth street, after the car, which he was said to have been driving, rammed another machine parked at the curb.

A woman in the parked car narrowly escaped injury.

The car at the curb was the property of Barker Woodward, 20, Santa Ana, route No. 4, according to a report of the accident filed with the police by Woodward.

Rush is in the county jail, awaiting a hearing on the charge before Justice Andrew Wilson, which probably will be held today.

Movie Chatterbox

It is not often that villainy and stark brutality triumph in the films.

Yet, such is the art of Noah Berry, villain; William Powell, assistant villain; and Herbert Brenon, director, that the grim setting of "Beau Geste" and the vivid cruelty of Sergeant Lefebvre will be remembered long after the beautiful gestures of heroes and insipid love sequences have been forgotten.

In "Beau Geste," now having its world premiere here, Director Brenon scores an achievement. This is one of the finest melodramas of the screen.

Brenon has been unsparing. He has filmed a series of desert sequences that are more than staggeringly effective and beautiful. He has caught the terrific desert heat, the treachery and menace of the shifting sands, the ruthlessness of desert warfare and the innate brutality of an uncompromising commander.

Little Hukom.

Only here and there has he compromised with hokum for the purposes of "comedy relief." Take or leave the war mystery story conceived by Percival Wren, which enjoyed a best seller's fortune! In this picture the weaknesses of the tale can be forgotten in the skill of the presentation.

I am told that Brenon with 3000 extras and a million dollars of good cold Paramount cash went into the Arizona sand belt and built this illusion of the Arabian wastes, and that some two months were spent there in the midst of the hot season. All of this seems highly credible in the face of the results.

Those who read the novel will recall that the mystery surrounds the coming of a relief party to a French fort in the desert and the amazing discovery that the ramparts held only dead men, stationed as though living and in action.

Bodies Disappear

The mystery increases as two bodies disappear and although there are no signs of life, the fort suddenly breaks into flames. In the background is the second mystery surrounding the disappearance of a famous emerald and the consequent sudden departure of the three Geste brothers, each of whom takes the blame for the theft. It moves to the French foreign legion, in which group of "self condemned exiles" they take service.

The scenario makes no effort to change the grim end of two of them. They die in the picture and no effort is made to spare them—quite unusual in an industry which goes to wild ends to spare the lives of its handsome heroes, though some will die young and unpleasantly in life, as witness the late Rudolph Valentino, Wally Reid and Barbara La Marr.

It is not likely that the Paramount paps will have any reason for regret. Critical and box office reports give this film the appearance of a sure success.

Trained Monkey Leads Police To Master's Slayer

MADRAS, Sept. 13.—Police records here have just revealed how a trained monkey brought about the discovery of a brutal murder.

Manikham, a noted criminal, has been released from prison after serving 20 years as an accomplice in the killing of a Hindu showman named Shanharin. The latter had amassed a big fortune while traveling about India with his trained animals. Manikham learned of the showman's wealth and, with two aides, waylaid him in a Hindu village one night, killing him with a hatchet.

The monkey, which was much attached to his master, climbed up a tree and witnessed the whole affair later going to the Madras police station, where he jumped into a window, catching the police inspector by the coat tails and annoying him until the officer followed him to the scene of the murder.

The animal dug open the grave where the bandit had buried the showman. The police then led the monkey through neighboring villages until the animal saw Manikham and attacked him, revealing the murderer, who later confessed.

POPULATION OF IRELAND SHOWS SHARP DECLINE

DUBLIN, Sept. 13.—The preliminary report of the Free State census, taken last April, has been tabulated and reveals a decline in population in the 15 years from 1911 to 1926 of 168,886. The present population is 2,972,802, as against 3,139,688 in 1911, a fall of 5.3 per cent.

The Northern Ireland figures, issued recently, disclosed an increase in that area of 5791 in the 15 years. Taking this with the Free State returns, the present population of Ireland is 4,229,124, compared with 4,309,219 in 1911, a decrease of 161,095, or 3.7 per cent.

In the 26 counties, as in Northern Ireland, a drift from the land to the towns is observable. While at present in the Free State 63.2 per cent of the people live in "the country districts" (that is, outside towns and villages of 200 or more inhabitants) the proportion in 1921 was 80.7 per cent.

Urban Districts Grow

Another way of showing this tendency is as follows: Taking 100 as a basis in the year 1921, Dublin and the four adjoining urban districts have grown to 147, while the "country districts" are down to the astonishing figure of 35. The smaller the town the worse it fared, the rural areas faring worst of all.

In other words, since 1921, the "country districts" have lost 64 per cent of their population, towns of 200 to 500 residents lost 49 per cent, towns of 500 to 1000 lost 25 per cent, towns over 1000, other than Dublin and its suburbs, dropped 13 per cent, while the metropolis and its adjacent townships gained 47 per cent.

The decrease in population of any district, or in the whole of the Free State, is exactly equal to the net emigration minus the "natural" increase (births minus deaths). The average of the population per annum increased from 26,154 in the period 1901 to 1911 to 26,946 in the past 15 years. For all Ireland, the latter average was 23,468, of which it is calculated 14,653 went to Great Britain.

British Troops Withdrawn

In explanation of this apparently high figure, it is pointed out that the British army, withdrawn from the 26 counties on the signing of the Irish treaty, numbered 25,242, or, including their dependents, about 34,000; that 27,405 Irish soldiers were killed in the World war (this figure does not include officers, whose numbers are unknown), that numbers of officers and men who served in British army during war remained in other countries, and that many of the disbanded Royal Irish Constabulary left Ireland in 1921. These abnormal streams of emigration, however, merely made up for the great diminution during the war of the number of ordinary emigrants.

The report gives some details of the number of Irish-born persons who have settled in other countries. In 1920-21, there were 1,037,234 natives of Ireland living in the United States, 367,747 in England and Wales, 159,020 in Scotland, 105,033 in Australia, 93,301 in Canada, 34,419 in New Zealand, 12,289 in South Africa, and 8,154 in India, a total of 1,317,457, no less than 43 per cent of the present population of Ireland—a proportion which, says the report, makes this country absolutely unique among the countries of the world. This exiled population must in itself attract a large number of emigrants' relatives and friends of the exiles every year, no matter how prosperous conditions are in this country.

Four Million Irish in U. S.

In the United States, in 1920, there resided 4,136,395 persons of Irish origin (both of whose parents were Irish born or one of whose parents was Irish) and 1,107,317 in Canada whose fathers were Irishmen.

The remarkable fact is that there are fewer women than men in the Free State, the number of females per 1000 males being 973. In Northern Ireland, however, the women outnumber the men in the proportion of 1065 to 1000. For the whole country the figures show the sexes to be almost equally balanced, with the women in the very slight minority of 993 to every 1000 men.

Hitherto at every census since 1821 the women were in the majority. The year of greatest excess of women over men was 1871, when the figures were 1050 to 1000. Connaught of all the provinces has 944 to 1000.

There is a strange variation as between the three Ulster counties which are in the Free State, who have only 939 women per 1000 men, and the whole Ulster, where the population is 1040 to 1000.

Women Predominate in Cities

In Dublin, as in other cities, the women predominate. The country districts and small towns have an excess of men. The proportion of females in the Free State is lower than in 24 other European countries. This is attributed to the fact that great numbers of young Irish girls emigrate, mostly to America.

Dublin today has 316,471 residents, as against 204,802 in 1911, an increase of 3.8 per cent. Cork city has 78,468 residents now, compared with 76,673 15 years ago, an increase of 2.3 per cent.

Basque Resorts
Charleston Mad

ST. JEAN DE LUZ, France, Sept. 13.—The Basque coast resorts are Charleston mad. From Biarritz to San Sebastian every second dance in the casinos is a Charleston. It has displaced the tango, even with the Spanish and French pleasure seekers, who do the Charleston with wild abandon. Most of the orchestras have American musicians, who sing the English words of popular Charleston tunes. Many hotels have posted notices asking visitors not to practice the Charleston in their rooms.

SPANISH WILL BE TAUGHT IN NIGHT CLASSES

Classes in Spanish will open the work of the extension division of the University of California in Santa Ana this fall. These classes, as well as all others, are open to all, regardless of previous education, and are arranged for evening hours so that business folk may attend. Lella B. Watson, head of the language department in the junior college, will have charge of the Spanish work. An elementary class, which will take up the very rudiments of the language, will meet on Mondays at 7 p. m., and one for students who have a slight knowledge of the language will meet on Thursdays at 7 p. m., in room 205, Santa Ana junior college.

On the same night, Wesley Lewis, associate in public speaking, University of California, Southern Branch will organize a class in public speaking, designed especially for those who are called upon to give extemporaneous or prepared speeches. The course will take up the cultivation of the speaking voice, collection of material, methods of developing a speech. Actual platform practice will be a part of the work. The class will meet in room 207, junior college, at 7 p. m.

Accepted For Credit
Classes in introduction to educational measurements, by Maud Whitlock, assistant supervisor, department of psychological and educational research, city schools, Los Angeles, will meet on Tuesdays, 7 p. m., in room 207 junior college, beginning September 21. This course is accepted by the state board of education for a course in educational tests and measurement for the administrative, supervisory, research and guidance, and general secondary credential.

Emil Lange, in charge of curriculum construction, city schools, Long Beach, will give a course in the high school curriculum Wednesdays, 7 to 9 p. m., in room 207, junior college, beginning September 22. This course is accepted by the state board of education as a course in the curriculum for the administrative, supervisory, or general secondary credential.

Of Special Interest
Of special interest to clubwomen, housewives, tourists and all others interested in cultural studies are courses in history of philosophy and contemporary poetry. Mrs. Eleanor Northcross, head of the English department and dean of women junior college, Santa Ana, is to give the poetry course on Thursday afternoons in room 201, junior college, beginning September 23. Students who enrolled in this class last year are looking forward to more delightful hours with the poets, such as Robert Frost, Edgar Lee Masters, Amy Lowell, Vachel Lindsay, Sandburg, Massfield, Joyce, Kipling and others. The class in the history of philosophy, by Edward Nealley, instructor in philosophy, junior college, Santa Ana, will open on October 7.

Hazel Bemus, art supervisor of the Santa Ana schools, is the latest addition to the extension division staff. She will instruct in fine arts education on Tuesday, 4 to 6 p. m., beginning September 21, room 240, science building, senior high school.

COWS LIVE HIGH
LIMA, Peru, Sept. 13.—A Lima shoe dealer was killed recently when a cow fell through the roof of his house into the dining room. Animals often are kept on top of houses in Peru, and it frequently happens that a cow passes her whole life on a roof, being taken there as a calf and finally brought down as fresh beef.

Road and Fishing Conditions

By the National Automobile Club
Sept. 11, 1926

Slow driving is advisable on the new stretch of highway now open south of Pismo Beach. While the highway is wide, at the overhead crossing of the Southern Pacific the banks are 60 feet high and unfenced and at night when traffic is thick and fog is in evidence, rapid driving is dangerous.

The time is now approaching when fly fishing will be excellent on June and Gull lakes, as the big fish live in cold water and after a few frosts will be on the surface. The deer have not yet started to move in this district, due to the mild weather. Duck hunting is promising as on Mono lake they are already collecting by the thousands but it requires a gale of wind to get them up.

From October 1st to 15th, this will be an excellent section for sport as one can fish and hunt deer on fine days and hunt duck on bleak days. There is a Ruth Clifford Still-ver Trophy valued at $300 to be won this season on June lake for the biggest trout. It will undoubtedly be won in October when the big fish are caught.

This is the best month of the year for fishing in the Bridgeport district, as the days are warm and a frost every night. Deer are plentiful but still high up.

The contract for the improvement of Whittier boulevard from the easterly boundary line of Los Angeles county to the city of Whittier, a distance of approximately 2.2 miles, was recently awarded by the California highway commission and construction activities will start immediately. The roadway will be paved with reinforced concrete eight inches thick and 30 feet wide and work will be carried on in such a manner as to permit traffic to use one side of the road. The work is scheduled for completion within 150 days.

KEMAL RULES AS PETER DID IN OLD RUSSIA

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—On the sea front of Smyrna, recently swept by fire, there lies, grim and stark, 13 ominous tripods. They are Turkish gibbets, and from each of them the light of a recent day has thrown on the street itself the dark shadow of a swinging body.

Scores of alleged conspirators, either arrested or fearing arrest, tremble with dread of a similar fate.

Those 13 gibbets mean that history is repeating itself. And the parallel of history happens in this case to be at once curious and complete. Analyze the career of Kemal the Ghazi, or Glorious, and you will see in him the successor to none other than Peter the Great. Peter also used the gallows. He and Kemal talked the same language of authority and they would have understood each other perfectly.

If these men of destiny both had to be at times a trifle rough in their treatment of criticism, it is because they tackled a task which time itself could scarcely accomplish. Each of these rulers in his day took a slice of Asia and tried to turn it into a bit of Europe. Each of them wished to make the east look like the west.

To Peter the east was Muscovy, or Russia. To Kemal the east is Turkey. And of Muscovy and Turkey it may be said that each is as far east as the other. Peter's problem and Kemal's problem are in this respect at least identical. And their solutions were similar, including the gallows.

Limb from Limb
As a disciplinarian Peter the Great thus acted as Kemal acts, only a little more so. In Moscow conspirators were not merely hanged. They were extended on the rack and dissected limb from limb, after which the bits were bound to poles in public as a warning to any who needed it.

In character the two autocrats might be twins. Of Peter it may be said of course, that he was born to autocracy, while Kemal had to win it. But in actual fact both these men were self-made. Both stooped to learn of the west in order that they might teach the east. Both based their ambition on personal merit.

Peter, like Kemal, knew what it felt like to be out of favor. There were tombs available, both for the dead and the living. Knowledge was to Peter, therefore, the only power worth having. He would not try to sail a ship until first he had served as cabin boy, swabbing the decks, brushing the captain's clothes, lighting his pipe, cooking his dinner, mixing his gin, waiting on his table and obeying his command to go aloft to the mast-head.

He thus enforced on others no duty more humiliating than had been his own hard education.

Peter preferred to bequeath Russia to a young Livonian captive, called Martha, of no family and no morals, but of an ability to reign as the Empress Catherine the Great.

And so with Kemal. In a decadent Turkey, he has stood for efficiency. The Turk, like the Cossack, is always a soldier, but for Kemal, as for Peter, to be a soldier was not enough. Their soldiering was also science.

Moments of Opportunity

Both Peter and Kemal rose to supreme power at the precise moment of opportunity. In ancient times Asia had spread westward into Europe. But Europe was now spreading eastward into Asia. In Turkey, as in Russia, the orient was crumbling. All that the autocrat had to do was to give a final push to the tottering edifice. Out of the collapse a civilization was to emerge.

About ethics the autocrats did not worry. What they believed was that "manners make the man." It was Peter who ordered the Russian to shave his beard. It is Kemal who cropped the hair of the police and also shaved their faces. It was Peter who took the long Russian cloak and cut it to the fashion of Paris. It is Kemal who substitutes any western hat that you like for the eastern fez that has so long been universal.

Neither of the reformers neglected the women. It was Peter who, in Russia, summoned the women from their seclusion, insisting they drop the veil; that they appear in public, and that the custom of selecting a wife at a kind of beauty competition be discontinued and a courtship of at least six weeks arranged. It is Kemal who has abolished the veil in Turkey, enforced the Swiss code of monogamy and confirmed the gradual transformation of the latticed harem into the European kind of home.

Both the autocrats did their utmost to develop a high society. In Moscow, Peter the Great insisted on families entertaining in European style. So it is at Angora. There is gaiety in that city which starts at dusk and ends only at dawn.

Here, then, has been a conversion to the externals of Christendom. Whether Peter the Great or Kemal the Glorious ever experienced a change of heart may be doubted. Their adopted culture might be of Europe, but it was still Asia that inflamed their passions. Both men, while disclaiming polygamy as an institution, were stern husbands.

The wife of Peter's youth was the Empress Eudoxia. And Mustapha Kemal married Latifeh Hanum, daughter of a wealthy merchant in Smyrna.

Both women, having brains took an intelligent interest in public affairs. Eudoxia, being religious, thought that Peter, in his reforms, was going too far; and Peter, not sharing her respect for the church, had to impale her paramour on a stake, where he died.

Latifeh, having a mind of her own—but no children, was merely divorced. But Kemal, her hero, has not forgotten her girlish devotion. On the contrary, he retains her dowry; and when she threatened a lecture tour in Europe, possibly the United States also, on women's rights in Turkey, Kemal,

SANTA ANA BOY IS JAILED ON CHECK CHARGE

Charged with issuing one alleged fictitious check and attempting to pass another, Archie Best, 21, 501 Cypress street, was arrested Saturday and is being held in the county jail.

Best was released from jail several weeks ago, after being held on a similar charge.

The arrest followed the issuance of a check to J. H. Book, Eighth and Parion streets, by Best Saturday, according to the police. The check was for $5.

Best also is alleged to have attempted to pass a check at the Rapp and Tindall store, on East Fourth street, but fled when an employee of the place went to the telephone to determine whether the check was good.

The youth probably will be given a hearing today. He was arrested by Officer F. W. Howard.

as a friend of feminine freedom, named her family as hostages, which language Latifeh says she clearly understands. In Constantinople, therefore, Latifeh is kept as quiet as the Czarina Eudoxia in her convent.

Kemal and Peter were no favorites of the clergy. Requested to appoint a patriarch for Russia, Peter threw out his chest, slapped it and retorted "Patriarch? Here is your patriarch."

Kemal on his side will have no caliph and has abolished the monasteries of the dervishes.

Peter the Great, like Kemal, wanted the capital of his country somewhere else; and, dissatisfied with Moscow, he erected, therefore, a city which is now honored with the name of Leningrad. Kemal, unlike Peter in this respect, prefers that his capital shall not be a seaport.

"Will Kemal succeed? Did Peter succeed? Where today is his vanished veneer? Scratch a Russian and you have still the Tartar. Let loose the Turk, however "young," and what is this "civilization"?"

POOR POINCARE

PARIS, Sept. 13.—Edouard Herriot smokes a pipe. Aristide Briand smokes cigarettes; so does Andre Tardieu. Raymond Poincare smokes nothing; in fact the very odor of tobacco makes him ill. Yet, in all interests of "national union and conciliation," he allows his colleagues to smoke through their long official meetings. His office is a haze of smoke when they leave, but not until then does the premier rush out, gasping for air.

THE COMPLETE STATIONERY STORE

307 West Fourth Street

Featuring Both Armstrong's and Nairn Linoleum Together with Gold Seal Congoleum Art Rugs

While we have always laid stress upon our Linoleum Department within the store itself and in rendering the very highest type of service to our customers in fitting, laying, etc., at no time have we advertised this section extensively.

But now with the arrival of huge new shipments of linoleums let us remind you that this department is second to none in completeness of stock, variety of patterns and range of prices.

Some of the newest things include embossed tiles recently brought out by Armstrong's. Entirely new and wonderfully attractive.

With the many indoor days ahead, new linoleums in your home—and we have them for practically every room in the house—will effect a great saving in time as well as adding beauty. Easy to clean and in designs and colors to match any present decorative scheme.

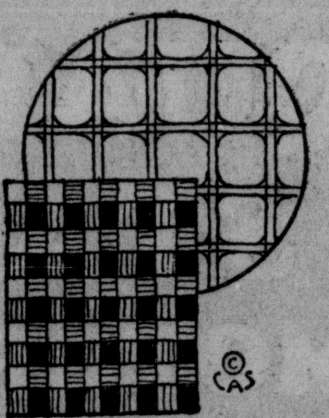

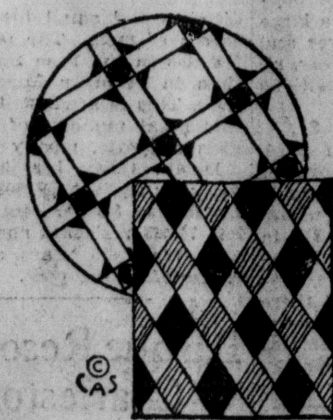

May we show you?

The Wear is in the Laying!

Possibly you have never stopped to think that the wear you get out of linoleum is as much in the manner in which it is laid and the attention it receives until it is fit perfectly to the floor, as in the material itself. We have men who specialize on the proper fitting and laying of linoleum and who give it attention until it is perfectly flat and "permanent."

We have found that the greatest satisfaction may be had in cementing the heavier types to the floor.

This specialized work in seeing that you get the utmost wear is just another example of Chandler Store Service. Make use of it in the selection of your linoleums.

U. S. SERVICE MEN ARE DETAINED

Supervisors State Purpose
Is to Cut Down Number
Of Fires Caused by Men

Any deer hunter who goes into the Cleveland National forest during the open season of a month, starting September 15, and who starts a fire will have a forest ranger on his trail pronto.

Forest rangers are to be stationed at advantageous points so that hunters can be registered as they start in on their hunts. They will be expected to tell where they are going and how long they propose staying.

Then, each hunter will be handed a slip of paper that contains some specific suggestions and instructions.

"The purpose of this action," said J. E. Elliott, of San Diego, supervisor of the Cleveland forest, "is to aid in keeping man-caused fires down to a minimum."

"The deer season is always a worrisome period," said Forest Ranger J. B. Stephenson, of Corona, who has been at the county fair this week representing the Forest Service. "It comes during the dry season and hunters go into places not ordinarily frequented by visitors in the forest."

Much of the Cleveland forest in the Santa Ana mountains is covered by a state game refuge.

In order to register hunters, four forest service men have been detained. Ranger William Clark is to do the registering at Corona; Patrolman W. F. Benedict at the Black star crossing in the Santiago canyon; Ranger L. L. Carpenter, at Irvine road, in the San Juan canyon, and Ranger W. E. Searcy, in Trabuco canyon.

The printed instructions given to hunters read as follows:

"Help us protect your forests."

"National forest visitors: Your continued use and enjoyment of the National Forest you are now entering is contingent upon compliance with the following laws and regulations which are being strictly enforced. Failure to observe these preventive measures may result in serious fires and necessitate the complete closure of the national forests to public use."

"Smoking is prohibited, except at improved camps and places of habitation."

"Camp fire permit must be secured before any outdoor fires including those in stoves burning gasoline, kerosene or wood, may be

Drunken Drivers Forfeit Permits At Rapid Rate

Driving automobiles while under the influence of intoxicants continues to be a major cause of revocation of operators' licenses, it was revealed here today by a report from Will H. Marsh, chief of the division of motor vehicles, showing that 115 motorists lost their licenses for this season during the six months ended June 30. The list was increased by 20 by revocations for the same offense during July and August.

During the eight months covered, the department revoked 219 licenses. The causes and number for each type of violation were as follows:

Intoxication, 145; three convictions for violating sections 113 and 121 of the motor vehicle law 19; request of parents, 17; order of courts, 36; physical disability, 5; by division, 8.

P. H. Kuhne, of Fullerton, was included in the list of drivers who lost their licenses in July and August for driving while under the influence of liquor.

ESPEE TO OPEN CITY OFFICE ON FOURTH STREET

L. B. Valla, for 17 years district freight and passenger agent here for the Southern Pacific, today announced that the company had leased from W. A. Huff and the H. T. Rutherford estate the northeast corner of Fourth and Broadway and on or about November 1 would open a city office there.

Pointing out that passenger and freight traffic officials of the company had come to recognize the business importance of Santa Ana, Valla said decision was made to procure one of the best locations in the city and the corner of Fourth and Broadway was chosen because investigation had satisfied them that it is one of the busiest corners in the city.

The location secured formerly was the shop of the Fourth Street market. The owners of the property now are engaged in making extensive improvements and are modernizing the structure.

Architects of the railroad company now are completing plans for the largest, most attractive and best equipped ticket offices the company has in the Southland, outside of its offices in Los Angeles.

"Selection of the location was made by company officials after a careful survey of the present and possible future development of the city," Valla said. "The investigators decided that Fourth and Broadway is now one of the busiest corners in the city, with bright prospects for important improvement and development in the future."

"A downtown office will be of great convenience to the traveling and shipping public of Santa Ana and vicinity and will offer them a service we are sure they will appreciate."

CITY'S YOUTH GOES BACK TO STUDIES FOR ANOTHER YEAR

Young Folk of Santa Ana
Return to Class Rooms
After Summer Vacation

SLIGHT INCREASE IN NUMBERS SEEN

Cranston Expects Enrollment
Will Be Somewhat
Higher Than Last Year

School is not a prison for the army of 5000 Santa Ana students who today took possession of the city school system, opened for the fall term after summer vacation.

The teacher's realm holds no terror for even the most rebellious red-headed youth that ever idolized Tom Sawyer. It was found when the students were questioned to learn their attitude toward school. To all except mother, school is actually popular about this time of year when the glamor of vacation has worn away.

Over the city today, Shakespeare would have needed Diogenes' lamp to find the schoolboy "creeping like a snail, unwillingly to school."

Different With Mother
But for mother it's different. Although all summer she has sighed and wished for the school bells to again ring out. Now that the time has come, she regrets it. The quiet around home is noticeable and even oppressive without the pranks that her sons and daughters constantly improvised.

Times certainly are getting bad, though, says dad, thinking over his hookey days and contrasting it with the friendliness that his son holds toward school where the teacher, once like a stern warden of the prison camp, rules.

Vacation for most of the Santa Ana boys and girls has become a bore. School offers a change. Moreover, there's lots of fun to be had. Playground games, class contests and other interests are opened up to them. Perhaps they are willing to take work with play if they took it from that philosophical angle.

All Schools Open
The movement back to school extended from the kindergarten to the junior college over Santa Ana.

A slight increase in enrollment at the city schools is expected this year by J. A. Cranston, superintendent. An index of the influx of people to Santa Ana is shown by the registration of more than 50 new students at the Santa Ana polytechnic high school. Many states were represented.

The junior college showed the most decided increase, with a 20 per cent greater enrollment than last year.

Teachers and students in the schools today became chiefly acquainted with one another. The mills of the educational process are to begin grinding on regular schedule by the middle of the week. And before long, descendants of the Sawyer clan will be counting off the days until the next vacation.

SANTA ANA HAS LARGEST COAST ROSE HOTHOUSE

223 STUDENTS REGISTERED
AT S. A. JUNIOR COLLEGE;
INCREASE OF 20 PER CENT

Figures were advanced today to show that the Santa Ana junior college has a 20 per cent increase in enrollment over the total number of students at the corresponding time last year. McKee Fisk, who is in charge of registration, announced that 223 students have signed for courses.

All who know that Santa Ana has the largest rose hothouse on the Pacific coast, raise their hands.

While hundreds pass the Amling plant, on West Fifth street, every day, few realize that this establishment exceeds in size any other rose hothouse in the west and that it is considered by experts to be one of the most modern in the United States. Its products are sent as far east as Chicago.

The average of roses cut and shipped from this plant every day is 4000. Sent to a large wholesale house in Los Angeles, they are sold to florists in that city, St. Louis, Kansas City, Chicago. Looking at the greenhouse from the outside, one marvels at the size—but it is much more interesting inside. Row after row of rose plants are growing in boxes about waist high. There are so many that it is impossible to guess the number, but upon inquiring one is astounded to learn that there are almost 75,000 bushes. They receive more care than the child of a multimillionaire, for 16 persons are kept busy the year around tending them.

Five years ago the Amling rose greenhouse was built and such was the demand for roses that in three years it was necessary to build three additional houses. The most modern equipment is used. There are charts in the building that automatically register the temperature day and night. During the day it is impossible to keep the temperature at a certain degree because of the sun, but the night tem-

The goal of 300 aimed at for this year will be reached, it was said, if the proportionate increase through late registration equals that of last year.

Later registration is being conducted in Room 1 this week.

More students are returning this year for their second year's work than ever before, it is shown. Eighty-four students are sophomores and 139 are freshmen.

Graduates of the Santa Ana polytechnic high school predominate, numbering more than 100. Orange is second, with 24. Other high schools of southern Orange county represented are Huntington Beach, 11; Tustin, 11; Garden Grove, 5; San Juan Capistrano, 3, and Anaheim, 3.

In all the tourist influx, indicated by the localities from which 23 students come, includes 15 states, reaching as far east as Massachusetts.

The students enrolled are: Patrick Allee, Lois Allen, Alberta Almond, Grace Alberts, Lawrence Andrews, Ella Armstrong, Maxline Armstrong, Alfred Ault, Carroll Ault, Edna Backs, Eula Barber, Helen Battey.

Lawrence Barnett, Dorothy Beals, Alma Beckman, Mrs. Marie Beisel, Kate Benton, Catherine Best, Ray Bloemer, Lawrence Bolles, Richard Bradley, Frances Bragg, Edith Breckenridge.

Erma Brown, Raymond Brown, Roberta Brown, Marlam Bruff, Rebecca Budrow, Naomi Bulpitt, Ruth Bulpitt, William Burt, George

EMPLOYEE SOUGHT IN BURGLARY CASE

Police are searching for a man, who for the last three days, had been employed at the Pennant cafe, in connection with the burglary of the restaurant early today, when $25 in cash was taken from a desk in the front of the cafe.

The desk was jimmied and ransacked, the money being taken from one of the drawers. The burglary is thought to have occurred about 5 a. m., just prior to the time the restaurant was opened for the day's business.

The employee is said to have disappeared. A check of the buses running between here and Los Angeles was made, but the man has not been found.

Thieves entered the Business Institute, Ramona building, 415 1/2 North Sycamore street, Sunday morning and, although all desks in the place were ransacked, nothing was taken, according to a report filed with the police.

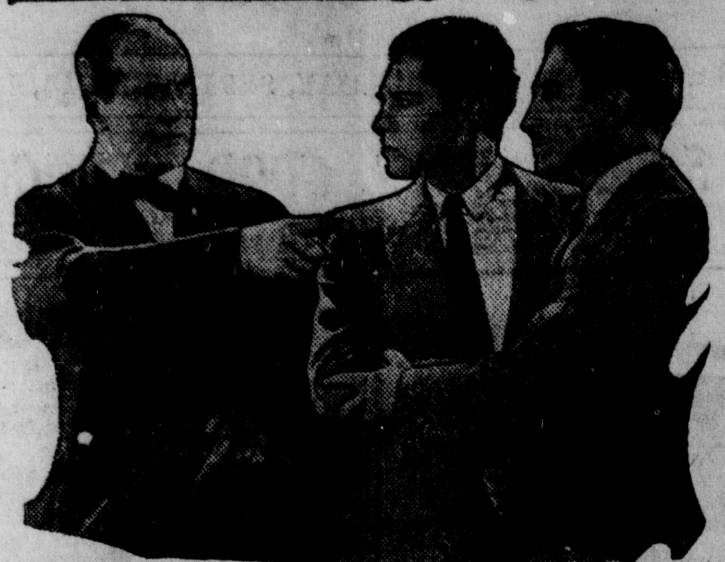

Entrance was made through a transom.

AT THE THEATERS

A scene from Gene Stratton Porter's "Laddie," the film showing at the West Coast-Walker theater tonight and tomorrow.

Priscilla Dean in a scene from "Forbidden Waters," photoplay at the Yost theater.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER
Milton Sills in "Puppets," is the current attraction at the Yost Broadway theater.

Sills is admirably cast in an Italian role, and his leading woman, Gertrude Olmstead, is a happy selection, as she brings sympathy and understanding to her part. Miss Olmstead is at her best in this picture. Sills must have delighted in his work, for he is so human and natural.

Nicki Riccobini, played by Sills, goes to war less than an hour after he marries the girl of his dreams. When he returns he finds that his friend has stepped in and is making love to steal his wife. When the friend continues his love making Nicki goes berserk and there is a thrilling finish, which, of course, is a happy one.

Francis McDonald as the villain does some excellent work. Mathilde Comont has a wonderful role, in which she furnishes much excellent comedy as well as a few tears. Lucien Prival, William Ricciardi and Nick Thompson are all good in their parts and have been admirably cast.

WEST COAST-WALKER
Generally considered, it is believed that never in the history of Santa Ana's theatricals has such a gigantic and comprehensive program been outlined for future guidance and operation as that now in vogue at the West Coast-Walker theater.

That Santa Ana has always felt the lack of metropolitan entertainment is the belief of West Coast officials, who with C. E. Walker, resident manager of the West Coast-Walker theater have evolved a radical change of policy embodying features and elements found in only the de luxe metropolitan playhouses. As firm believers in the embellishment of feature motion picture productions with stage presentations, the announcement Saturday that the future policy control of this important key-theater would henceforth be serviced semi-weekly by Fanchon & Marco "Ideas," created unusual interest among the local theater-going colony.

Additional interest among music-lovers has been observed following the announcement that Way Watts, famous conductor and his band of nine artists have been engaged for an indefinite run at the West Coast-Walker theater. Watts has long been a favorite performer on the Pacific Coast, coming to Los Angeles following a series of popular engagements along the Atlantic seaboard and important key cities in the Middle West.

YOST THEATER

For the first time in her screen career Priscilla Dean appears in a make-up quite foreign to anything she has ever previously attempted, in her new star picture, "Forbidden Waters," which was shown at the Yost theater last night. In preventing her ex-husband from marrying an adventuress who seeks only his wealth, Priscilla dons the garb of a poor old woman with a Paisley shawl about her shoulders. She drives an old Ford and parks her car in the center of the road as her former husband drives up. He stops and offers assistance—only to be greeted by a wicked looking six-shooter.

The old woman marches him back to his car and forces him to drive her to a harbor, where they enter a launch and sail for a desolate island. Then she reveals her identity. This brings about complications of great interest.

SOUND WAVES TO BE USED IN SHIP DIRECTING

PARIS, Sept. 13.—At the extreme end of the sea wall at Calais there has just been installed a new form of lighthouse, or rather, one should say, soundhouse, that emits a revolving ray of high-frequency sound vibration for the guidance of shipping in the Straits of Dover.

By its means vessels will be able this autumn and winter to make their way through the straits in the thickest, most impenetrable fogs, and to enter Calais harbor with as little hesitation as in the clearest weather.

High-frequency sound waves, far above the range of the human ear, the mode of their production and their utilization are due to Professor Langevin, of Paris. They are, as it were, the ultra-violet end of the sound scale. Like light rays they are directed in a beam of most valuable quality. In war they were used in a special apparatus for the detection of submarines, and this method, as is perhaps generally known, is now so perfectly developed that no submarine can henceforth leave the harbor without certain destruction in waters commanded by a superior surface fleet.

Professor Langevin's work has been to develop a curious electrical quality of quartz discovered by M. Jacques Curie, in 1880. If a sheet of quartz cut in a certain way is compressed the result is to create on either face opposite charges of electricity. Inversely, if the opposing faces of the quartz are charged with opposite charges of electricity the sheet undergoes a compression just as if it were clamped in a vice. If, then, the sheet is charged and discharged alternately it vibrates like the diaphragm of a gramophone. All this is easy enough.

To this simple device Professor Langevin has applied the high-frequencies of vibrations to be used wireless apparatus, which enables frequencies of vibrations to be used with the most perfect accuracy. In this way he has succeeded in producing a scale of ultra-sound waves of perfect elasticity and definition.

Water Vibrations
If this vibrating quartz sheet is plunged into water it sets water vibrating like a diaphragm in the air. These ultra-sound water vibrations have an immense range, far greater than that of air-sounds. A reflector directs the vibrations in an absolutely straight and non-diverging ray. Here are all the elements of a submarine "sound-house" on the model of a lighthouse.

The beauty of the arrangement is that the quartz sheet can receive and emit equally. Suppose a ship at sea is provided with the same apparatus as that sending out its signals from Calais pelthead. Ultra-sound waves striking upon it are "amplified" just as in a receiving set of wireless and made audible in a telephone on the bridge.

The Calais post emits a high-frequency sound note of 40,000 vibrations a second in the form of a narrow submarine ray. It is a revolving "soundhouse," and the ray sweeps through its circuit three times a minute like one of the shore revolving lights.

Indicates Distance
But Calais does more than "illuminate"; it indicates its distance at the same time to the navigator at sea so that he knows at any time his distance from Calais to a few yards. Simultaneously with its ultra-sound ray the post sends out a wireless signal. It is like the flash and the boom of a gun, which every schoolboy knows how to correlate. The wireless signal arrives instantaneously, like the flash of the gun. The ultra-sound ray travels at the rate of some 4700 yards a second. All that the navigator has to do, then, is to count the seconds after the wireless signal until the sound-ray is heard. A simple calculation gives him his exact position.

ANCIENT CITY BECOMES NEW MONTE CARLO

RAGUSA, Dalmatia, Sept. 13.—Ragusa has come to be known as the Monte Carlo of Dalmatia. A great gambling resort has been opened in this Slavonic Athens, as the native Ragusians call it, which attracts throngs of visitors from all parts of Southeastern Europe. It is a favorite place for Americans emerging from the Balkan countries by way of the sea.

To Attract Visitors
Several new hotels have been built and the old Ragusan metropolis, where King Richard Coeur de Lion, is said to have taken refuge in a storm while returning from Palestine, has been beautified in other respects so as to attract visitors.

Ragusa is situated on one of the finest landlocked harbors in Europe and has a mild climate throughout the year.

Is Prettiest Spot
Embossed in hanging gardens, great palms, aloes, cacti and oleanders and garlanded with all kinds of tropical flowers, it is one of the prettiest spots on the Adriatic sea. Its picturesque old walls, dating from the days of the Venetians, are still intact and many exquisite gems or architecture remain as memorials of the days when Ragusa was a proud republic. The old world atmosphere, the quaint, narrow streets, paved with huge square slabs, and the flock of fluttering pigeons remind one of an ancient Italian city.

Ragusa as Asylum
Like ancient Rome, Ragusa began life as an asylum. It was at first a rock of refuge for the survivors of the wrecks of Roman coast cities of Dalmatia. For many centuries it was a flourishing republic until 1806, when Napoleon seized it and proclaimed the city-state at an end.

Its citizens today are Dalmatians, Croats, Serbs, Italians and Austrians, most of whom by hard work and thrift have become prosperous tradesmen.

FOR FASTER TRAINS
DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 13.—Railroad trains will be able to compete with airplanes in speed when ball bearings are used on coaches, engineers believe. To make such high speed safe, the rails must be set in a solid concrete roadbed and several miles of this track is to be built here for experimental purposes. The concrete will be 18 inches thick and 10 feet wide. Such construction would allow an enormous saving in final operating costs, it is said.

Ananias Known As Apostle In His Home Town

DAMASCUS, Sept. 11.—Every American who comes to Damascus is told: "Don't fail to visit the house of Ananias."

Although after three weeks in Syria, visiting Beirut, and other large cities, and listening to some of the tales that are being related by the various sects and parties, one begins to feel that Ananias was greatly overrated and were he living in these days, in these parts, he could not hold down a berth in class D of the Liar's league. One feels that he cannot leave Damascus without calling on the patron of prevaricators.

He occupied a fine house, as houses in Damascus go, and must have been a prosperous old gentleman.

"Did he have any other profession besides that of a liar?" a guide was asked.

"Lawyer," he was not a lawyer, there were no lawyers in those days," the guide who learned his English in England, replied reprovingly.

"Liar! Liar!" was the emphatically repeated query.

"Aah! a fibber, you mean," came back the Anglo-Syrian with a look of intense surprise. "Why this man is not known because he was a liar, but he is the man who converted Saint Paul."

They never have heard of Ananias the liar, in this part of the world.

National Guard Men to Be Sent To West Point

The governor of California has been requested to recommend two candidates from the enlisted personnel of the California national guard for admission to U. S. military academy, West Point, N. Y.

The selection will be made according to the order of merit established by competitive examination, which will be held at the Los Angeles and San Francisco armories, starting Friday morning, November 6.

To be eligible for appointment, the applicant must be an enlisted man of California national guard and on date of admission, July 1, 1927, must have served not less than one year. He must be unmarried and between the ages of 19 and 22 years.

Although only two appointments are allotted to the state, last year six candidates were recommended, due to the fact that some states failed to furnish their quota.

PILLAR OF FIRE TO TOP MEMORIAL

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 11.—A pillar of cloud by day and of fire by night, thrust heavenward atop a giant shaft of stone, soon will be a living reminder of the sacrifices of Kansas City's soldier dead of the World war.

Experts in color effects have labored for weeks to produce the correct effect of fire at night, and at last have succeeded. Steam and electric lights are used. On the cloud of steam, swaying gently in the night breeze, is reflected through lenses of the proper color the light from electric lamps. The effect is that of a cone-shaped pillar of fire. In the daytime the effect is that of a pillar of smoke.

The stream floats from a great bowl, borne aloft by a gray stone shaft 217 feet high. The bowl is supported by the upstretched wings of carved angels. The shaft rises from a wall more than 400 feet long, flanked by large buildings. The massive Liberty memorial is located on a hill directly south of the union station.

The memorial site was dedicated Nov. 1, 1922, during the American legion national convention, in the presence of President Coolidge, then vice president; Gen. John J. Pershing, Gen. Baron Jacques, of Belgium; General Diaz, of Italy; Marshal Foch, of France, and Admiral Beatty, of England.

SANTA ANA HAS LARGEST COAST ROSE HOTHOUSE

perature is kept at 64 degrees throughout the year. The majority of greenhouses prune the rose bushes every year, but about three months ago was the first time any cutting back was done in the Santa Ana plant—and in a short time the bushes will be in bloom again.

The roses are graded according to the length of the stems. At Christmas special attention and care are given in selection, as the demand for exceptionally long stems is greater than. Many bouquets with 42-inch stems are made and one prize rose was cut with a 78-inch stem. The bushes are fertilized once a month because of the continual cutting.

Seven varieties that are grown in the Ameling hothouse shade from a beautiful yellow to a very dark red. This year a new rose is being grown. It is pale pink in color and unusually fragrant and is proving popular.

Upon seeing the thousands of lovely flowers blooming at the same time and smelling the sweet fragrance, one cannot help thinking of the well known line, "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

Anyone who wishes can go through the plant, as visitors are always welcome.

HERE'S REAL SPEED
ITAQUAQUETUBE, Brazil, Sept. 13.—The fastest living thing is not Charley Paddock, sprinter, nor yet is it a bird. It is, according to Dr. C. H. T. Townsend, American entomologist, the lowly cephenemyia, an insect. With tremendous power stored in a body of extremely light weight, it can fly 815 miles an hour. If man could duplicate this speed, he could encircle the earth between sunrise and sunset of the longest summer day.

HE DIED HAPPY
OSSINING, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Just before he was to die in the electric chair, William Hoyer, negro, ordered the following last meal: One duck, a can of peapods, a pound of liver with dumplings, four slices of bread, boiled rice, tomato salad, strawberry shortcake, a pint of vanilla ice cream, raspberry soda, 12 "good" cigars and a package of cigarettes.

THE MARTYN, FREE X-RAY

CHIROPRACTORS

WILL GIVE A

FREE X-RAY

Examination to all sick people who call at their offices before Sept. 18. There is no catch to this offer. It means exactly what it says and you will be under no obligation in any way. Many people hesitate in taking advantage of the above because they do not understand how we can give an X-Ray examination without remuneration in some form. But let us state right here that if we never see you again, after giving the report on your condition, we shall feel well paid for our efforts, because we have at least spread the wonderful truth of Chiropractic through you to the next person who we, the Palmer Chiropractors, have made a special study of the spine and the nervous system and realize the importance of keeping the nerves free from pressure in order to have and maintain a healthy body. Many individuals think that because we work exclusively on the spine, we cannot correct their particular condition of sickness or trouble, not realizing that every part of the body receives its power to function or its life, directly from the main line—the nerves. Our work is to find these pinched nerves which are causing your trouble and with our hands alone, in a very careful manner, without pain, remove this pressure. We do not use medicine, surgery, osteopathy, massage, violet-ray, electronic reaction, or any other adjunct. Only our hands upon your spine. We do not twist your neck, pull your arms or legs or use hammers.

A Free X-Ray Examination will show clearly all of these little details that are so necessary in making an exact analysis of any sickness or disease. It will show the position of the vertebrae and the condition of the many tiny nerves that supply the body with force or energy. It will show what must be done if your health is to be restored, and will eliminate guesswork to the fullest extent. It will be conclusive proof as to the cause of your condition that you can see with your own eyes and that you can depend upon. That is why we use it in our work. We would no more think of adjusting a patient without first X-Raying to locate the cause of the trouble than a carpenter would think of building a house without a rule. If you are not well and wish to learn the real facts of your case, take advantage of the following offer.

Any sick person who will call at our office at 412-416 Helbush Bldg., corner of Fourth and Main Streets, Santa Ana, before Sept. 18, 1926, will receive an X-Ray examination and a report showing the exact cause of his sickness or disease. ABSOLUTELY FREE OF CHARGE, or obligation in any way.

BOOST BODIES OF L. A. COUNTY MEET AT PARK

Members of the Greater Manchester Improvement association and the Associated City Planners of Los Angeles gathered at Orange County park, Saturday, for a joint picnic, making the trip in a caravan of 100 automobiles, starting from Palisades Del Rey. The chief purpose of the excursion was to increase interest in Orange county in plans for the extension of Manchester avenue through from Los Angeles, beginning at Palisades Del Rey.

T. B. Talbot, William Schumacher and Willard Smith, members of the Orange county board of supervisors, were introduced and spoke favorably of the proposed extension. Hugh L. Pomeroy, secretary of the Los Angeles regional planning commission, spoke of the benefits from the extension of the highway to Orange County park and the beaches.

Burt Holloway, president of the Los Angeles regional planning commission, and Gordon G. Whitnall, secretary of the Los Angeles city planning commission, spoke briefly. Whitnall discussing "Recreation and Conservation."

J. M. Paige, secretary of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce, and director of the Associated Planning commission, presided over the meeting of that organization, and Samuel M. Duxley, of Puntington Park, president of the Greater Manchester Improvement association, presided over the meeting of that body.

South Gate was awarded the banner for the largest number of members present at the picnic and for having the largest amount of money in the treasury paid in by members. Norwalk was second in the first contest, with 98 members present.

Communities along Manchester avenue represented were South Gate, Downey, Palisades del Rey, Inglewood, Los Angeles, Graham, Norwalk and Vermont avenue.

SCIENTISTS BRAVE DISEASE IN WORK

LONDON, Sept. 13.—To verify certain conclusions he had reached in his study of cancer, Doctor Kurtzahn of Koenigsberg grafted a living cancer into his own flesh, performing the operation himself. No ill effects resulted, which strengthened his theory that the disease cannot be induced into a body which is not in a pre-cancerous state. An equally daring experiment was performed by Doctor Pettenkofer, of Munich, who, during a lecture, drank a glass of water into which had been introduced millions of cholera germs. He believed that he was immune to the disease and the experiment proved him right. But he risked a terrible death in proving it.

BRITISH EVACUATE CHINESE PROVINCE

PEKING, Sept. 11.—British residents of Sze-Chuen today began evacuating the province, due to the alarming proportions China's civil war has assumed along the Yangtze river, it was unofficially reported here.

It is believed that their flight by the Yangtze river route may be blocked by General Yangsen, head of the troops controlling the territory.

The British legation is preparing a note regarding the recent clash at Wan Hsien between British sailors and adherents of Yangsen, in which the British suffered casualties.

Leopold, Loeb Commence Third Year In Prison

JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 12.—Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, who killed Robert Franks "for a thrill," have completed the second year of their sentences of life and 99 years in the state's prison here.

Leopold is bearing up better under prison life than Loeb, according to prison authorities. Loeb is morose and sullen and on the border line of nervous mental collapse, according to Dr. Walter Martin, prison physician. Leopold is still interested in "experimenting in thrills" and continues his studies in bird life as best he can from the small barred window of his cell.

Leopold is in the shoe factory, while Loeb is a member of the yard gang.

Methodists Will Open Conference

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., Sept. 13.—The annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church of California will meet at Santa Cruz the coming Wednesday. Selection of ministers for the various Methodist pulpits in the California conference for the coming year will form one of the most important matters of business.

BIG TELEPHONE BOOK

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The London telephone directory has increased in size and weight with such rapidity that it soon will be too heavy for the chains that hold it to the boxes in call offices. The new volume contains 320,000 names and has 1366 pages. It weighs four and one-half pounds.

The pilgrimage of a Moslem to Mecca is called making the hadj.

New Record In Production Of Potatoes Set

STOCKTON, Sept. 13.—A new world's record for potato production was credited to the Zuckerman brothers here, when it was found that the production from their one acre Henning tract farm totalled 61,420 pounds. The weighing took place before more than 200 witnesses. The former record of 57,752 pounds from one acre, made two years ago, was held by Fred Rindge, Stockton.

BABSON HOLDS BUSINESS OVER COUNTRY GOOD

WELLESLEY, Mass., Sept. 13.—Business is good at present, considering the nation as a whole, Roger W. Babson, statistician, told the 13th annual National Business conference, here.

A composite barometer of all sections now shows a condition 12 per cent above normal, according to Babson.

"It is true," he added, "that people are not making the profits that they did and some lines in some sections are suffering, but, taking the country as a whole, business is very good at the present time."

Babson said it would take years to stop the main trend of the upward momentum of the country, even though there would be periods of depression every few years.

"America not only has the resources and the labor, but it has the brains, the courage and the faith which make for real progress," he continued. "Europe, on the other hand, is still heading downward and probably will continue to decline for a long period."

Babson would not be surprised to see a distinct recession in business—even a panic—within the next two or three years, but such, he said, would be merely temporary.

The best cities in which to sell goods at present were named by Babson as Asheville, N. C.; Boston, Indianapolis, Jackson, Miss.; Little Rock, Ark.; Los Angeles, Newport News, Va.; Oakland, Orange, N. J.; Reading, Pa.; Rockford, Ill.; Salem, Ore.; Sioux Falls, S. D., and Wilmington, Del.

The most prosperous industries, he said, are packing, fertilizer, glass, pottery, chemical, foundry and machine shop products; iron and steel; electrical machinery and petroleum refining.

GOODCELL COST IN ELECTION $28,503

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 11.—Judge Rex B. Goodcell, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination at the recent primary election, spent $28,503.16 during his campaign, it was shown in his statement filed today with Secretary of State Frank D. Jordan.

Justus S. Wardell, who won the Democratic nomination, spent only $1127.21, it was revealed.

Other candidates filing campaign expenditures were: Lena Morrow Lewis, Socialist, lieutenant governor, $52; Milton Bryan, Democratic, secretary of state, $56; W. S. Kingsbury, Republican, surveyor general, $583.30; U. S. Webb, attorney general, Republican, $473; Democratic, $581.95 (Webb was nominated on both tickets); Jess W. Curtis, supreme court, $5,520.27; Frederick W. Houses, state supreme court, $11,350.70; D. A. Cashin, first appellate court, $1100.83; Fred E. Stewart, equalization board, $2096.49.

Rare Tooth Find Pieced Together

BERKELEY, Sept. 12.—Ten years ago, Prof. Chester Stock brought to the University of California a broken tooth of a primitive bear-like animal which he found in the valley of the John Day river, in Oregon. The "find" has remained a prized one in the vertebrate collection in the museum of Paleontology, University of California.

While motoring early this month through the same valley, Dr. John Merriam, of the institute of technology, and a group of fellow scientists found two similar teeth, one broken.

Dr. Merriam brought them to Berkeley and expressed the opinion that they belonged to an animal of the Hyacinarotus group. He recalled the tooth fragment found by Dr. Stock and asked to see it. The two fragments formed one tooth. They joined as closely as if they had been broken apart only a moment before.

TO REBUILD PARTHENON
NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Several columns of the Parthenon at Athens will be rebuilt into their original positions as the result of the contributions of Americans. The columns were blown from their places in 1687 by the explosion of a Turkish powder magazine within the temple by a Venetian shell. Ellin Root was among the group who gave money for the restoration.

DAY SELECTED FOR MARRIAGE WEALTH INDEX

BRUSSELS, Sept. 13.—If you are a millionaire here you are married on Tuesday. If you are a pauper Saturday morning is the only time that you can choose at which to acquire a husband or a wife.

And if you are neither rich nor poor, but a member of the great middle class, then you are married on Wednesday, at 11 o'clock in the morning.

The ceremonial form is decreed by law in Brussels, where three times a week the bride and bridegrooms of the city are led forth by their nearest kin and in a royal ceremony, with the pomp and splendor of a coronation, hundreds of them are married in one room, "till death do us part."

Marriages Wholesale
In order that it shall not be necessary for hundreds of people to pledge allegiance to all the others, the proper two persons are called to the front of the great hall in the Hotel de Ville, the municipal building, where all the marriages take place, and swear to love, honor and obey each other. In spite of this precaution, marriage may be said to exist on a wholesale basis in Brussels, for none of these civil marriages is performed in private.

The law does not specify that the rich shall be separated from the poor, however. This is determined by the fee which is attached to the marriage license issued on the various marriage days.

Wealthy Afford Tuesday
On Tuesday it is a fairly large sum that only the rich citizens can afford to spend on the simple process of being married. The real wedding, officiated over by a clergyman or priest, usually comes after the civil ceremony, although it is not legally necessary. Most of the citizens save their francs for this later occasion and therefore it is only the wealthy class that weds on Tuesday.

Wednesday is more popular than Tuesday, for in Brussels, as in other parts of the world, there are people who do not want to be classed as poor, even if they are without worldly possessions. Many of those who can ill afford it are married on Wednesday, that simple service being for them a defiant gesture to the world in general.

"Oh, yes," says the Brussels charwoman in later years, "I was married on a Wednesday."

Carries Shreds of Dignity
Such a boast carries with it some small shreds of dignity. But Saturday is the most popular day of all for getting married, for on that day the great marriage room in the Hotel de Ville is thrown open to all comers—the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker, the beggar, the chimney sweep, the poorest farmhand from the outskirts of the city. They all are married together in the very same room and in the very same way as their richer brothers and sisters—and there is no fee at all!

The marriage room is never used for any other purpose. Four days a week it stands empty and quiet; not even tourists are allowed to enter. The special stairway of the lions, an entrance to the building, is reserved for the sacred feet of those who would sacrifice at the altar of Hymen and on Mondays, Thursdays, Fridays and Sundays a thick silken rope is strung across the doorway so that not even the superintendent of the building can tread the hallowed ground.

Panama hats come from Panama, Peru and Colombia. Bangkok hats come from Manila instead of from Bangkok.

Maj. Oliver Stewart, British airman, declares women are too fearless to make good airplane pilots.

BOBBED-HAIRED BANDIT UPSETS SCOTLAND YARD

LONDON, Sept. 13.—A bobbed-hair bandit, who is believed to have been concerned in seven robberies during the last two weeks, has so upset the equilibrium of Scotland Yard that it is considering putting women detective on her trail.

The cleverest operatives of Scotland Yard have been unable to discover her identity. No policeman who has seen her has been able to formulate any accurate description because of the various disguises.

Some report her as dark and slim, while others maintain she is of heavy build and has blond hair. All agree that she possesses the skill and initiative of Arsene Lupin, coupled with uncanny feminine intuition.

In each robbery she has directed operations from a motor car in which she drove the thieves away. In every case except one she has been able to steer herself and accomplices through the police nets set to capture her and her band. On the last robbery, two men were captured. They refused to disclose the identity of their queen.

On this occasion the woman eluded the police and drove away in the company of a third man. She has been pursued, but each time she jammed her foot on the accelerator and flashed with breakneck speed in and out of traffic to safety.

The woman's knowledge of London streets and side turnings is better, apparently, than that of the "bobbies" who have pursued her.

The organized confectionery industry in the United States is planning to spend $350,000 a year for three years in national advertising.

These two Des Moines sisters can Charleston or wash dishes with equal skill, and they're relying on these two accomplishments to pay their way while they hike from Des Moines to Orange, Tex., their birthplace. Two weeks later, the brother bridegrooms were in jail, accused of three Oklahoma bank robberies and a murder. Perry Chuculate, Cherokee Indian, was shot while helping a posse chase the boy bandits. A battle with the second posse on the side of an Arkansas mountain preceded their capture. The boys had told their brides they were going out to get money with which to furnish their homes.

And she gets away with it. Many and many a flapper thinks this new sheik is the finest thing yet. In fact, Ruth says she's even engaged to one girl—and she's wondering how she's going to get out of it.

TOURNEY ON AT
FOREST HILLSWorld's Foremost Players
In Effort to Dethrone
Tilden As U. S. Champ

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The annual effort to dethrone "Big Bill" Tilden as American tennis champion began here today.

Sixty-three of the world's ranking players will compete in the National championship, starting at 2 o'clock, when S. Howard Voshell takes the court against Watson M. Washburn and Henri Cochet of France meets W. W. Ingraham.

Tilden, six times champion, may have the hardest battle of his career this year. He has shown symptoms of falling off lately and has been beaten by Vincent Richards, A. H. Chapin and Rene La Coste—by the latter in the Davis cup matches last week, the first time Tilden ever has been defeated in Davis cup play.

Bill Johnston, the former champion, is perhaps the most formidable contender. He showed he is at the top of his form by beating both La Coste and Jean Borotra in the Davis cup play. Borotra is one of the few stars not competing in the tournament starting today.

Richards, William Johnston, Henri Cochet, La Coste, R. Norris Williams, Takeichi Harada of Japan, Manuel Alonzo of Spain, and a few others are certain to make the play lively and interesting.

FOOTBALL MEN
OPEN PRACTICE

Santa Ana's 1926 football season was to "officially" get under way this afternoon.

Several scores of the city's husky and scrappiest athletes were today with the arrival of Coach "Tex" Oliver, now Santa Ana high school mentor, and others to Graham Harris, who was to begin his second season as coach of the Santa Ana junior college squad.

High school candidates, or a handful of them, have been going through "pre-season" paces for the past week but the squad was expected to be swelled considerably today with the arrival of many players who have been working or who have been away from the city on vacations.

Thirty or forty lighter boys, seeking honors on the Poly 110 and 130-pound aggregations, which have their own schedules, also were counted on to report to Coaches Walter Scott and Ray Adkinson.

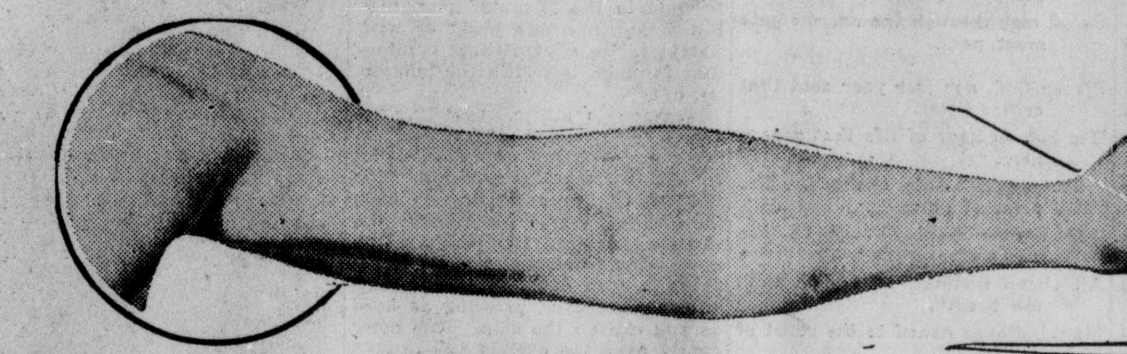

While the team has almost three weeks ahead of it until its first game, Coach Oliver intends to devote the attention of his squad entirely to practice. If any games are played at all before October 1, when Santa Ana meets Manuel Arts at Los Angeles, they will be only "scrimmage" contests for purposes of conditioning.

Poly already has a tremendous schedule of eight or nine tough titles and Oliver probably will be satisfied to "point" his team gradually rather than rush it into a hard workout in the next week or two.

Lewis, Munn Set
For Vernon Match

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13.—Ed ("Strangler") Lewis and Wayne ("Big") Munn will wind up their training today for their two-hour main event on Johnny De Palma's wrestling card at the Vernon Coliseum tomorrow night. The match will be Lewis' last before he meets Joe Stecher for the heavyweight wrestling crown of the world.

Georgetown's big football games this season will be with Pittsburgh, West Virginia, Syracuse and Annapolis.

OR WILL GENE HAVE BETTER LUCK THAN THESE FIVE FAMOUS
RINGSTERS HAD AGAINST THE "MANASSA MAULER'S" FIST?CECILY CUNHA BREAKS COAST
RECORD IN 440 FREE STYLE
RACE AT A. A. U. SWIM MEET

Several hundred persons, many from Santa Ana, experienced the thrill yesterday of watching Miss Cecily Cunha, mermaid of Club Casa Del Mar, Los Angeles, set a new Pacific Coast record during the championship outdoor swimming meet for men and women held under the supervision of the swimming committee, Southern Pacific association, of the A. A. U. at Newport bay.

Miss Cunha won the 440 yard free style event in the time of 6 minutes and 38.2 seconds. By that performance, she broke the old time by 3.8 seconds and annexed the Pacific Coast championship. She had some fast company opposing her and the way Miss Hilda Curtis pressed her in the swim forced her to the new record.

Weather conditions were favorable for the meet and this combined with the entries of the premier swimmers of the Pacific coast made the contest one of the best held this year, officials declared. There were 50 men entrants and 20 women.

A surprise occurred in the 220 yard men's free style race in which Lester Smith, of the Olympic club, San Francisco, old in the swimming sport and touted as one of the best water splashes in the country, was beaten out by a 17-year-old high school boy, Bela Kendall, of Pasadena. A similar trick was played on Smith's teammate, Frank Walton, when George Leach, still in high school, won the men's 220 yard back stroke.

Something of the significance of this showing may be gained in knowing that Smith was a member of the United States Olympic team in 1924.

The meet extended over both Saturday and Sunday. Saturday's program included novice events which were entered by swimmers of Newport bay.

In Sunday's meet, the Venice Plunge Swimming association piled up a total of 21 points which won them the club cup for men. The point total for women gave the other cup to Club Casa Del Mar under whose pennant Miss Cunha swam, individual ymaking 8 of the 27 points.

Team standings were as follows: In the men's class the Venice Plunge Swimming association took first with 21 points; Hollywood Athletic club second with 19; the San Francisco Olympic club third with 17; the P. A. Athletic and Country club fourth with 13; Fleischacker Pool, San Francisco, fourth with 9; the Los Angeles Athletic club fifth with 8; the San Diego Athletic club sixth with 5.

In the women's division, the Club Casa Del Mar, Los Angeles, won first with a point total of 27; The Golden Gate, San Francisco, second with 6, and the Los Angeles Athletic club third with 3 points.

Bagwell Gains In
P. C. L. Swat Race

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—Bill Bagwell strengthened his hold on Pacific Coast league batting honors last week, gaining six points to a standing of 392. Arlett, Boone, Elford, Statz, Averill and Jolley trail in that order. Swanson of the Missions and Lane of Seattle with 37 and 34 piffled bags respectively, are staging a lively contest for honors.

Ever since Jack Dempsey stepped into the pugilistic parade back in 1918 by leaving a dizzy trail of defeated opponents in his wake, he has been known and respected for his mighty walloping powers.

Dempsey with a crack at Jess Willard and the titular wreath as his objective, went on a wild and sensational rampage during 1918. He was a veritable bowling ball spinning down the heavyweight alley, toppling one foe after another—a strike almost every time he went into combat.

Then came the real thing of his pet ambition—a clash with Jess Willard, the mastodon from the Kansas plains. Willard outweighed Dempsey by some 60 pounds, and from the ringside it looked like nothing short of murder—with Jack the victim.

But when Jack of the mighty wallop cut loose the huge Willard soon collapsed, being battered into an almost unrecognizable piece of humanity in three rounds.

About a year or so later Dempsey took on the late Billy Miske. Miske, of course, wasn't in Jack's class at all, and in the third session the fellow with the mighty wallop cut down another opponent.

The late Bill Brennan was next. For 11 rounds Brennan held the champion off; in fact, gave him quite a battle. But Bill couldn't hold the pace and in the twelfth the mighty wallop scored again.

Jack's next championship struggle was with Georges Carpentier, the gorgeous one from France. It was called the "battle of the century," but didn't last long. Carp being wiped out of the picture in the fourth stanza.

Two years later the mighty wallop added another victim to its list. This time it was Louis Firpo, the big bull from the Argentine. Firpo got by the first round alive, but the second had hardly got under way when Dempsey battered the invader down for the final count. The mighty wallop found Firpo about the toughest obstacle it had ever encountered.

Some nine or ten times it floored the challenger, but couldn't keep him on the canvas. Success, though, finally crowned its efforts. What will the mighty wallop do against Tunney? Will Tunney lap added another victim to its list?

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13.—Miss Dodie Blewett, 19-year-old Los Angeles girl swimmer, expects to make a second attempt to cross Catalina channel.

Miss Blewett was forced by cramps to abandon a try started shortly before midnight Saturday after covering approximately two of the 23 miles of channel water.

Despite the fact that she had been swimming less than an hour Miss Blewett was almost completely paralyzed when taken from the water.

STRUGGLE FOR LOCAL TENNIS
N. L. FLAG IN TOURNEY TO BE
CRUCIAL STAGE PLAYED OCT. 3By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—This is the big week in the National league.

With St. Louis on top only one game ahead of Cincinnati and Pittsburgh toiling along a game and a half back of the Reds, the situation is likely to cause an epidemic of heart failure among the fans of these baseball mad cities.

Both the Reds and Pirates won double-headers in their Sunday games while the Cardinals were idle. The showing of Pittsburgh against the Giants convinced more than 40,000 fans at the Polo grounds that St. Louis and Cincinnati will have to hurry if they are to keep the champions from repeating. Excellent pitching by Aldridge and Meadows was backed up by the notorious bat-smashing ability of the Pirate lineup.

In the two games, Paul Waner hit two homers, two triples, a double and a single. Grantham had a homer and a pair of doubles.

Entries will be received by Cress at the Steln photo shop, 310 North Broadway, until Thursday, September 30.

Players who make the best showing in the local net classic will be selected to play on a Santa Ana tennis team that will meet club and school squads from various Southern California cities. Cress, Jerome, "Crip" Marston, Emil Poust, E. Pettitt and Kenneth Ranney were members of the team last year.

U. S. AMATEUR GOLF
TOURNEY BEGINS

SHORT HILLS, N. J., Sept. 13.—America's amateur golfers met today in the 30th annual championship tourney. A somewhat cloudy sky, but otherwise good golf weather greeted the players as they started out in the first of the two 18-hole qualifying rounds.

Headed by Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, champion for the last two years, every leading amateur was present with the exception of Jess Sweetser, England and Canada had a few representatives present.

The qualifying medal rounds today and tomorrow will decide who will tee off Wednesday when match play starts.

SOUTHERN CAL.
INDOOR KINGS
HERE THURSDAYJimmy Mansfield to Pitch
For Locals; Johnson Is Mound Ace of Invaders

Whittier, Southern California indoor baseball champions for the last two years, will meet the Santa Ana All-Stars at Lincoln park here Thursday night.

While this will be the first appearance on the local lot of the crack Post ensemble, Santa Ana followers of the popular night sport have seen several of the leading Whittier performers in action here with City league teams.

Lloyd Johnson and Ted Rasmussen compose the battery for the Whittier outfit while Gus Hornier and "Red" Moon also will help their cause along. All these men are members of the eFluor Construction company, the leading team in the Santa Ana league.

Whittier defeated Santa Ana twice last year and clinched in Southern California indoor baseball this summer by taking first place in its league and trimming Arlington, title holder in the Citrus counties circuit, in a special five-game series.

Officials of the Santa Ana American Legion Athletic club, indoor baseball sponsors here, will make every effort to recruit a squad strong enough to at least make it interesting for the invading champions.

Jimmy Mansfield, the diminutive portside who doesn't have to take of this hat to any of the pitchers, will leave for the locals and "Eeny" Wilcox probably will snare his fast ones. Horace Snow, Bill Cole, "Tudy" Romo, Wayne Nelson, "Memphis" Hill, Randolph Bell and all the other Santa Ana experts will represent this city.

The league-leading Fluors tackle Lee's Fountain this evening and the encounter probably will find Thursday night's mound rivals—Johnson and Mansfield—pitted against each other.

Tomorrow night the Excelsiors face the Blazer Groves while the O'Donnells and the Santa Ana Lumber company hook up Wednesday. There will be no game Friday.

EGAN IS WINNER OF STATE GOLF TOURNEY

DEL MONTE, Calif., Sept. 13.—H. Chandler Egan, once two-year title holder of the National golf championship and five times Western title holder, today was en route to his Medford, Ore., apple ranch with the 1926 California golf title in his keeping.

Egan went into the finals Sunday with Johnny McHugh, 22-year-old San Franciscan whose playing was one of the tournament features.

Egan played with less brilliance than has usually characterized his many seasons in tournament golf, but McHugh played badly. The Oregonian emerged the winner 3 and 1.

McHugh's play was marred by innumerable hooks and many bad approaches, which were in direct contrast to his usual true drive.

Dempsey Begins
Secret Work at Training Camp

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 13. When Jack Dempsey steps from the ring here today after a few sharp rounds with his hired battlers, the public will be unable to see the champion slide between the ropes again until September 23—at which time he may or may not feel as chipper as he likely will today.

For Dempsey has decreed that from henceforth until he meets Tunney, his ring work will be in secret. The only exception he has made to this rule is for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week when newspapermen will be allowed to see him.

Jack Dempsey fought his first professional fight at the age of 21, at Mountrose, Colo. He knocked out a husky blacksmith in three rounds and was rewarded for his victory $25.

POE'S STORIES: Hop-Frog

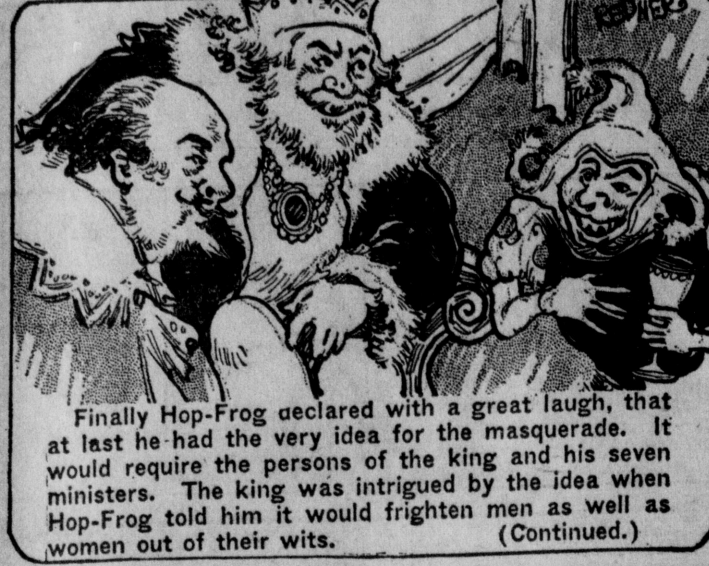

Trippetta, her face dripping with the wine the king had thrown upon her, arose meekly, not daring even to sigh. But through the room came a harsh grating sound, as of the rasping of a file upon stone. The king swore. He turned furiously upon Hop-Frog demanding that he quit grating his teeth.

Hop-Frog denied that the noise had come from him. He smiled, as if to set the king at ease, displaying a set of huge, powerful teeth.

Hop-Frog, as if further to disarm the king, drank glass after glass of the liquor that crazed his brain.

Finally Hop-Frog declared with a great laugh, that at last he had the very idea for the masquerade. It would require the persons of the king and his seven ministers. The king was intrigued by the idea when Hop-Frog told him it would frighten men as well as women out of their wits.

A WOMAN'S DAY

BY ALLENE SUMNER

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Sept. 13.—We have found at last the Promised Land—the land in Europe where one may have cream in real coffee for breakfast.

Maybe that doesn't sound like much. But just try living on European coffee for three months, and see what you think and feel and taste when you come to the land of wooden shoes and windmills and as many cows as New Jersey has sheeters, and get cream in your coffee.

We thought we would get it in Germany. All our lives we had read of the ambrosial German coffee and coffee kuchen! Ha, ha, it is to laugh. Just try to get coffee with cream or a slab of kuchen in Germany. They laugh and pitch you one of the famous continental breakfast rolls, which would have served young David well when he sought his weapon wherewith to slay the giant.

That's the funny part about one's reading—for instance, the romantic red-sashed gondoliers of Venice, and the dark-orbed maidens of Italy, and the delicious spaghetti of that same country, and the politeness of the French, and the wonderful Parisian gowns.

But in truth, the gondoliers are a most unromantic lot with dirty overalls and an itching palm, threatening to turn the gondola upside down if you do not double the price when you get ashore. And we saw more fair-haired girls in Italy than dark-dressed ones, and the most polite people we have found in all Europe have been the Germans, and the Paris gowns we saw were dowdy, and you can't get goat's milk to drink in Switzerland.

And eau de Cologne bought in Cologne smells worse than that bought in Paris.

A few interesting facts quiver in my manly chest which can not in themselves fill a column. Here,

The Other Fellow's Job Generally Looks Easier

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

He hung his hat upon the "tree" in the front room of the flat and walked wearily back to the kitchen. "Gee, it's good to be home!" he said as he dropped into a chair beside the table. "I don't see how I ever got along before they started this half holiday business. I guess I'm not as young as I used to be."

He'd made a mistake. He knew it at once. He had learned to be careful about giving his wife openings like this. She was off like a shot as she scooped his warmed-up lunch out of a frying pan onto his plate. It was nearly two, and too much trouble to muck up the dining room.

"I guess you're not," she agreed grimly. "At your age a man ought to be in a business where he doesn't have to take holidays and time off just when he's given it. You ought to have a big house and servants and a car. I guess I'm worked hard enough"—and so on.

She wound up with, "Well—small blessings are better than none. I'm glad you're home. This drain pipe won't work and the iron cord needs the end fixed and—don't you feel well? You look sort of white."

That was the end of it. His head went over on the table, and in thirty minutes he was in a hospital. After thirty days he was still there, and in sixty days he was in another—have for nervous breakdowns— with little hope of recovery.

His wife got a position in an office and lived with a married sister. She came home one evening and threw herself down without taking off her hat. "I see now why Jim got so tired," she said wearily. "I'll take a stove and a tub to a desk any time. Poor Jim! I guess I didn't know."

If you are interested, Jim got better in time and his wife got back to her stove. And his hours at home are what they should be. Peace and rest!

BEYOND

There is no fame beyond the gates

No pride, no pomp within the narrow tomb,

The proud, the great, the scornful and the base

Lie side by side, cold, still and commonplace;

The brilliant mind no more from death can reap

Than the dull wit who shares his couch of sleep.

And since so soon equality must be

Why boasts the lawyer of his larger fee?

Why strut the actor in his hour of fame?

What has the rich man others may not claim?

Think you that God, who views life as a whole,

Will give his favors to the best-dressed soul?

This man digs ditches, this one drives a cart,

This one has never said one sentence smart,

This one a little while has ruled a throng,

And what he thought was wisdom oft was wrong,

But since the mower spares no blade of grass,

So all men through the narrow gate must pass.

Please God, nor fret your soul that critics sneer.

'Tis but an hour of life that passes here.

Tomorrow all is changed. The pride of place

Men now display may be the soul's disgrace.

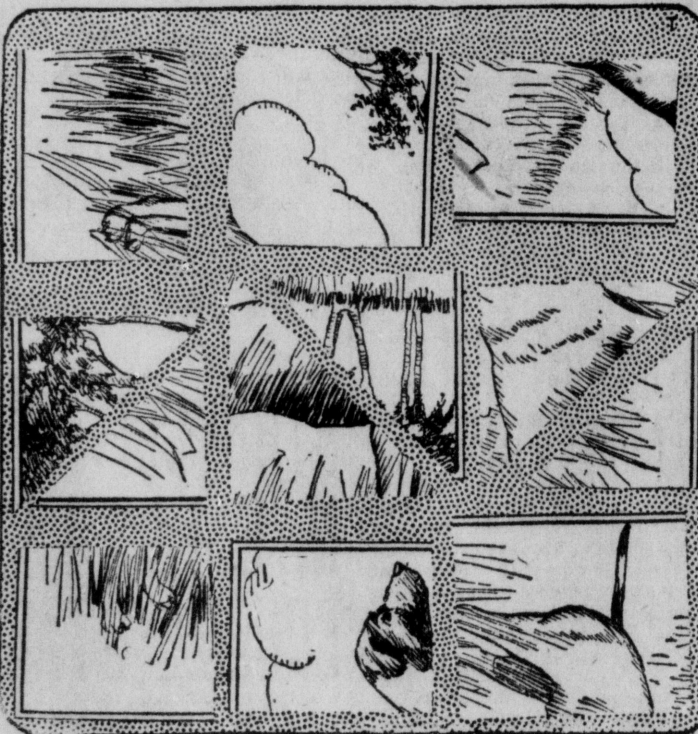

All cheap distinctions vanish with the breath.

Mankind goes naked to the court of death.

BEAUTY CHATS

EDNA KENT FORBES
FACIAL MASSAGE

I am not sure how much faith I have in scientific massages. But I have this much—I never advise any of my readers to try it until they have learned a little bit about it. After all, the principles are simple enough.

I think the most important thing is to use a good cold cream. If your face is rather full, and if you have no really important wrinkles use a cleansing cream. Make it up yourself using 'the formula' in the "Beauty" pamphlet. But if you are thin faced or with wrinkles, use a nourishing cream—that formula, too, is in the pamphlet.

Massage motions, usually, are across the wrinkles, and almost always upwards and outwards, so as to lift the sagging muscles. The tips of the four fingers of each hand are used, sometimes the thumbs to act as pivots. Rub across the forehead, especially if there is even a suggestion of lines between the eyes, pressing as hard as you can on the skin. Rub more gently over the eyelids and around the outer edges of the eyes, over the eyebrows, and under the nose.

Begin again at the chin, passing the fingers over the mouth and up and over the cheeks to the ears. Use the flat part of the four fingers for this, and lift the cheeks gently as you massage. Rub back and forth above the lip if wrinkles are forming here. Then, using the two middle fingers rub down the nose to the tip, pressing in as hard as you want. This is specially good for fleshy nostrils.

Rub hard under the chin, from the tip down into the neck, and stretch the head upwards to exercise those muscles beneath the chin.

constant application of acids will cause your skin to dry out and will lead to lines with no reason for them at all. Acid neutralizes the natural secretions, so you can see for yourself what will soon happen to your skin.

There is no object in bleaching off the tan during the summer months, for every one who lives outdoors to any extent is tanned, and is usually improved in his or her appearance by it. At least, a very white skin is not attractive at this season of the year.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

SAVES A STAIN

Fruit acids will stain the finest porcelain table top, if allowed to stand. Always wipe up immediately with warm water.

BOUILLON CUBES

Many cooks substitute two or three bouillon cubes for soup stock, in making mushroom soup.

CHAMOIS CLOTH

The high polish of the piano will benefit most from dry rubbing with a piece of chamois cloth.

TO AVOID CHIPPING

It is utterly impossible to avoid chipping glasses if they are piled in the sink with other utensils. Wash each glass separately, rinse and dry with a clean towel. Then set directly on the shelf.

MELON COCKTAIL

A delicious fruit cocktail may be made of balls of cantaloupe, honeydew and watermelon cut with a French vegetable cutter.

SWEET BUTTER

Sweet butter absorbs odors and flavors of other food more readily than salted butter and should therefore be kept tightly covered in the refrigerator.

MAKE COOL DRINKS

Save all fruit juices and use them for flavoring your summer drinks. Cherry or strawberry juice are particularly desirable instead of plain syrup or sugar.

MENUS for the FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Baked apples, cereal, thin cream, broiled cottage ham, creamed potatoes, corn bread, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Corn fritters, syrup, fruit salad, brick rolls, milk, tea.

DINNER—Mock duck, baked potatoes, creamed cauliflower, endive salad, huckleberry pudding, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

Corn fritters may not be the most digestible food in the world, but they surely are one of the most tempting. And after all a fritter that is properly cooked will not tax the digestion of any healthy, normal person. Try them some chilly autumn day when the family needs cheering up.

Corn Fritters

One cup corn pulp, 2 eggs, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-2 cup flour, teaspoon baking powder, 2 table-spoons milk.

Cut the tops from the kernels of four or six ears of corn. With the blunt edge of a knife scrape out the pulp. Beat yolks of eggs until thick and lemon colored. Beat in milk, beating until eggs thicken. Add to corn pulp with flour mixed and sifted with salt, sugar, pepper and baking powder. Mix until perfectly smooth and fold in the whites of the eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Drop from the tip of the spoon into deep fat hot enough to brown an inch cube of bread in 60 seconds. Turn several times while cooking and cook until brown on all sides. Drain on soft crumpled paper and serve with maple syrup.

SANTA ANA SCHOOLS

This is an important day in Santa Ana. It is important because it's opening day for Santa Ana schools.

We are justified, then, in pausing a moment to cast our eyes over our schools, and to consider, for a few moments, some of our school problems.

We have long had a reputation for having good schools. We look upon them as one of our assets, as they surely are. It has been our policy to give adequate financial backing to the schools, without extravagance. Our standards of scholastic attainment have been high, and will remain so. Our students going from our schools into other schools find that Santa Ana credits are accepted without question. Our high school is fully accredited by the University of California, and our junior college, which is under the jurisdiction of the University of California, is ranked as among the best in the state.

Perhaps Santa Ana's biggest school problem is that in connection with its junior college. From an institution with a dozen students, it has become an institution with an enrollment of almost 300. The junior college must have grounds and buildings separate from the high school. This is a case in which through separation each school will be strengthened. A movement toward the solution of the junior college problem for the entire county by the establishment of a county junior college has been held in abeyance, but action looking to the solution may be sought during the coming year.

The relation of the parent toward school and teacher is of tremendous importance. A prejudiced, unreasonable parent can cause as much trouble as a wilful, unruly child. Parents and others are warned to remember that children are not always in possession of facts concerning incidents at school. Rather than condemn school authorities, a parent who has what appears to be an objection to management of the schools should go directly to the school authorities. In that way, in nearly every case, objections are easily removed and the co-operation of parent and school becomes established, to the advantage of the pupil. The success of our schools the coming year, as they bear upon an individual home, depends largely upon co-operation.

Schools are an important factor in the lives of a great majority of the residents of Santa Ana. Whatever concerns our schools, therefore, concerns a very large proportion of our residents directly, and all of them indirectly.

And nobody is more anxious than those in charge of the schools, from the superintendent down to the kindergarten teachers, to make this year the best year the Santa Ana schools have ever had.

CLEARER ROADS DESIRED

A large automobile club has been receiving news from many homing tourists as to the conditions of roads and other matters of interest. Automobile clubs are always glad to get this information and to disseminate it again when needed.

On one point the motorists of all ages, sexes, varieties of culture and points of view seem agreed. They dislike having advertising signs near road direction signs. They wish the latter to be clear and unconfused. And they hate the horrible hot dog signs and most of the mushroom, ugly, hot dog stands.

The motorist does not condemn the hot dog sandwich nor the chicken dinner. Nor does he wish the signs entirely eliminated. It is often a great convenience to know a bit ahead that food, rooms or camping places are coming soon.

It is the ugliness with which those things are done that he despises. A neat, simple and clearly readable sign, set apart from the road signs, is all right. A decent refreshment stand set back a bit from the road, maintained in cleanliness, fills a need. But neither the signs nor the stands themselves need be ugly, blatant, vulgar.

It is at least refreshing that the great body of motorists has begun complaints about them. There are now so many that competition will begin to act, and the best and most attractive stands will get the trade. The others will have to clean up and make themselves pleasant in looks and service, or lose the business.

THE CURFEW IN CHICAGO

Chicago has a curfew law which went into effect September 1, with interesting results. Girls and boys under 17 are forbidden to be out after 10 o'clock. The first evening the police picked up 500 girls from 13 to 16 and sent them home with warnings to keep off the streets and out of dance halls. Repeated offenses may bring more serious treatment.

That is a good work, much needed in larger cities and not entirely uncalled for in smaller ones.

One trouble, however, the police are having in Chicago which is sure to occur in the application of any curfew law nowadays. It's a difficult and delicate matter to assume any particular age for the girls on the street, when flappers and grandmothers dress and look so much alike.

CHICAGO INVADES ABYSSINIA

More exploring. An American expedition, representing the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago, is going to Abyssinia to see what natural curiosities it can find in that remote, lofty and mysterious tableland which rises like a vast island out of the African plain.

It may have luck. For the first time, the ruler of Abyssinia has given his consent and help to a scientific expedition. Many wonders may be revealed in the great mountains, gorges, jungles and fastnesses of that ancient land, over which the Queen of Sheba once reigned and which was defended against Islam long afterward by the Christian king, Prester John. The mysterious Mountains of the Moon will be explored. Three rare animals in particular will be sought for the Chicago museum. These are the smooth-skinned rhinoceros, which presumably never got any crumbs under its hide like the rhino in Kipling's story; an ibex larger and rarer than the Marco Polo sheep that the Roosevelt boys shot in Central Asia; and a superb beast called the nyala, otherwise known as the Queen of Sheba's antelope.

There may be archeological discoveries, too. The explorers say there is a walled city there never entered by foreigners. If they penetrate to that city and its secret temples, they will find the lost Ark of the Covenant which, according to the sacred books of Abyssinia, was brought from Solomon's Temple, and which tradition says has been preserved by the Abyssinian priesthood ever since? That would be a find, indeed.

It isn't canoes or rowboats or sailboats or automobiles that cause deaths by accidents. It's the foolishness of the people who operate them.

The Death Driver

Kansas City Times
If all drivers and all pedestrians were careful there would be no motor car accidents. If only the drivers were careful there would be almost no accidents. If we could eliminate the flagrantly reckless drivers, the accidents would be very few. There are thousands of drivers in Kansas City who have driven cars for years and never have had even a close call for which they were responsible. But there are no drivers of extended experience who have not had accidents or close calls for which others have been responsible. The whole business of accidents, deaths and traffic danger narrows down pointedly on the careless or reckless operator.

With the reopening of the schools caution on the one hand and enforcement of traffic laws on the other become more imperative. The admonishing is especially pertinent in view of the continuing high average of fatal accidents. Traffic officers and courts have been bearing down on traffic offenders. There are, however, too few arrests and punishments for carelessness and recklessness that do not result in accidents. The driver who takes hazardous chances is a constant menace, but so long as he escapes a crash he is likely to escape punishment. For this immunity the public, particularly the public that drives and drives carefully, is most to blame. Too few instances of near-collisions are reported. The reckless drivers never will be properly sobered or be barred from the streets unless the private citizen does his part in reporting his infractions.

More Tax Reductions

Pasadena Star-News
There will be another substantial reduction in taxes, by 1928, or not later than 1930, in the opinion of experts of the United States Treasury. Such good news is being made in reducing the public debt, that a material cut in taxes should be possible within the next four years. It may come before the 1928 Presidential election. It will be very welcome when it does come. There is sure to be additional reduction, if the policy of President Coolidge is to be maintained—to retrench in government, and to effect as much reduction in taxes as possible. The national debt has been reduced to a figure slightly under $20,000,000,000. Should the policy of President Coolidge be continued—reducing the public debt as rapidly as possible and applying to its liquidation sums received on war debts from foreign countries—the national debt would be wiped out entirely by 1944. This, provided no great national emergency should arise in the meantime to swell the national indebtedness.

The national debt would have been liquidated long before this had it not been for the World War and the great mountain of debt which it piled up.

CHANGING BED CLOTHES NOT DIFFICULT

A trained nurse or hospital orderly can change the bedding among which an invalid reclines without the bedding being soiled more than five or six times. As the process is usually carried out at home, both the invalid and the housewife are completely exhausted at the end of the task. The matter is, after all, a relatively simple one. First one loosens all of the bedding by pulling out the tucked-in portions from beneath the mattress, then all of the pillows are removed but one.

The patient turns on his side so as to occupy only one-half the bed, the blanket being kept over him to keep him warm. Now the undersheets are rolled from the side opposite to the middle of the bed; the mattress is cleaned and the clean sheets placed on the edge of the bed and unrolled to the center until they almost meet the soiled sheets.

Now the patient, still covered with the blanket, rolls back over to the clean sheets; the soiled linen is then removed from the opposite side and the clean sheet spread over the remainder of the bed. The top sheet is smoothed and tucked in under the mattress and the blanket placed over it.

The princess who was so sensitive that she could feel one pea through 24 mattresses was no more delicate than the invalid who can feel a bread crumb under three sheets.

The bed must be kept free from such irritating substances, each of the sheets being carefully smoothed each time the bed is changed. Pillows should be taken from the bed, covered and adjusted before they are returned.

If the patient is to be bathed in bed, the following articles must be available: A water-proof pad beneath the patient and two old blankets, one over the water-proof sheet and another over the patient; hot water in a deep basin, an extra supply in a pitcher, a jar for waste, a face towel, a bath towel, wash cloths and talcum powder; if available, also a small amount of bathing alcohol. The temperature of the water should be about 105 degrees Fahrenheit.

It is sometimes advisable to keep a hot water bag at the feet of the patient during the bathing process to prevent too great a fall in his temperature.

The room should be warm and drafts should be excluded. In hospitals, it is customary first to sponge and dry the face, washing the neck and ears well with a good lather of soap. Particular care should be taken that no water and soap remain in the ears.

Now each arm is brought in turn over the blanket, the hand placed in the water, soaked and washed, and the arms sponged carefully and then dried completely. The patient's chest and abdomen may be washed under the cover or exposed, depending upon the physical condition.

After the upper half of the body has been washed, it is well to pour away the water in the basin and to replace it with clean water from the pitcher. The lower limbs are then washed in turn in the same manner as the arms, then the patient is turned on his side or abdomen and the back and hips are thoroughly washed.

The Back Seat Driver That Gets Away With It

Back to School

Kansas City Times

New life is astir in town today. Something like 20 per cent of the city's population is resuming operations, not in store, office and factory, but in one of the city's largest businesses, the schools. It is a great day in the lives of thousands of boys and girls. To these young people it means more than the renewal of certain associations, a chance to play, to laugh, to be going and to be doing new things. Vague as the idea may be in many of their minds, these boys and girls sense the real importance of the work they are undertaking.

There will be few, if any, laggards in the throngs that turn to the scores of school buildings today. We challenge the photographers to find those wry faces and reluctant steps that traditionally have been associated with a return to books. Maybe it is because going to school these modern days does not mean primarily a concern with books—valuable as books are in education. At least, there isn't the kind of dealing with books that children of a former generation knew. Education today has been humanized in a new fashion. It has been made an agency not for the corraling and forcible instruction of youth by set formula, whether youth would or no, but for the kindly and tactful guidance of youth into new and broader worlds of thought and action. It has become a co-operative enterprise, a joint and entirely voluntary endeavor. It needs no "master," and it is without the antagonism, resentment and resort to force which the old system involved.

The whole community may share the enthusiasm of its army of youth which is again in motion. Who, in fact, doesn't recall the thrill of the first day in school, whether it was the actual beginning or simply the renewal of work? In reality, we are all in school, or should be, every day—learning something, broadening our outlook, catching new visions, seeing new possibilities in life, making new friends. There is a lesson and an inspiration in the re-opening of school.

Worth While Verse

A TRYST

A way of beauty that I love
Is how the moon hangs high above
Our pine tree—and the way one star
Attends her through the sky.

She looks aloof and cold and far,
But I have watched her, and there are Sweet secrets, whispered tenderly,
That woo her from on high.

She slips down softly to the tree
And from my window I can see
The silver leaves, all quivering,
Delight in her caress.

Then all of Nature seems to sing
In tune with their low murmuring,
And all the myriad stars come out
To see such happiness!

PREPARING FOR EXODUS

Riverside Press: When C. C. Young becomes governor on the first Monday in January, he will have state appointments to make the total annual salaries of which amount to some $300,000 and in anticipation of the changes that he is likely to make, a large number of state employees are already beginning to pack their trunks and to cast about for other jobs. A San Francisco paper a few days ago published a list of the state positions that it will be up to the new governor to fill; and the list filled with his ideas of state service. Most of the important positions in the state service are not held for any set term but at the pleasure of the governor; and naturally most of those people expect to go. The views of C. C. Young and Governor Richardson are quite widely divergent regarding state affairs (that is certainly pretty well understood) and naturally Mr. Young will want men and women in sympathy with his ideas of state service. It is not so much a question of "spoils" that are supposed in all political contests to be the perquisite of the victors, as it is a totally different conception of the standards and ideals of the state service and of the type of men and women best fitted to carry out these ideals. Some of the Richardson appointees may be retained by the new governor, but the guess of the Press is that they will be "few and far between."

There are two $10,000 appointments that the governor has to give out—bank examiner and engineer for the highway commission. There are a large number of position paying $5000 a year; and then quite a long list of boards and commissions where there is either a modest per diem or simply an expense account. Those positions are often more sought after than salaried appointments because of the prestige they give or because the opportunities for service that are thus made available appeal strongly to many people.

One former Riversider has already resigned from state service. Reference is made to E. M. Daugherty, state corporation commissioner; Mr. Daugherty's resignation, however, apparently had no connection with the election as he had completed plans for this change some time ago. He takes a banking position in San Francisco. J. R. Gabbert, of Riverside, state real estate commissioner, and J. E. King, of Hemet, state printer, are both rather recent appointees of Governor Richardson; these positions are not filled for any specific term and changes may naturally be expected when the new governor comes in. Both of the appointments were strictly political and both of the appointees have sought to "make good" on those lines. Edward Hyatt Jr., chief of the division of water rights in the department of public works, is another position in state service. His work is technical in character and there have been no reports of political activity on the part of Mr. Hyatt.

It is generally expected that one of the first departments where reorganization will be sought by the incoming governor is the department of education. This is anticipated because of the political activity of some members of the state board of education and because their stand on state college appointments and other matters was made one of the issues of the campaign. The board as it now stands is composed of three holdovers, all of whose terms have expired, and four appointees of Governor Richardson.

There is much speculation as to what the governor will do regarding the three vacancies; if he appoints new people, the new governor will have the interesting problem on his hands of a board of education with all seven members not merely opposed to him politically but opposed to his expressed views on several important educational policies. There is a decided feeling among school people in favor of lengthening the term of members of the state board of education to six or seven years. The present term is four years. A longer term would tend to divorce the board from politics and give the members greater independence. The regents of the state university are appointed for terms of 16 years.

C. C. Young is undoubtedly better qualified to deal with the problems of education than any other governor the state has had in the last 40 years at least. He is a graduate of the state university, was for a number of years a successful teacher, is the author of a text book widely used in the high schools, and has served as a regent of the university for 12 years. Moreover, as a member of the legislature he took a keen and sympathetic interest in all legislation to strengthen and develop public education in the state. This is a good record on which to predict an intelligent and effective support of education during the coming four years.

ROLPH TALK MORE BLUFF
San Bernardino Sun: There is talk up and down the state that Mayor James D. Rolph of San Francisco may become an independent candidate for governor at the November election against C. C. Young, the holder of the Republican nomination, and Justus S. Wardell, the Democratic nominee.

A week or two after every gubernatorial primary there is such talk. In the past it has been generally promoted by those appointees who had their backs against the wall and feared the political axe that falls so swiftly with the inauguration of new governors. Generally the talk of an independent candidate to give the supporters of a defeated candidate another chance to win, flattens out within a few weeks. Such will be the fate of the Rolph boom.

In 1918, however, there was actually an independent candidate on the ballot, Theodore Bell. He opposed William D. Stephens, the Republican nominee, and a bitter fight was staged through the state. But the campaign was of no avail. Stephens won 387,547 to 251,189, a majority of more than 135,000 for Stephens. And during that period of the state's history, Mr. Bell was just as prominent in the public eye as is Mayor Rolph today, perhaps somewhat more prominent for Mayor Rolph suffered a serious defeat when his ticket was defeated in the last municipal election in San Francisco.

While Mayor Rolph is non-committal during the early stages of the talk of placing him on the ticket, he would have a chance to believe that he would have a chance to defeat Young as the holder of the Republican nomination.

There is far more opportunity for fireworks in the senatorial contest than in the gubernatorial campaign. John B. Elliott, the Democratic nominee, flushed with his success of having promoted a Tammany-McAdoo clash within the Democratic party, is now out to stage a wet and dry battle with Senator Samuel Shortridge in the November election. The stage is already being set. McAdoo, who has had nothing to say about the California wet and dry question in the past, will open the ball by speaking at a dry mass meeting in opposition to the initiative to repeal the Wright act, which is the enforcement provision of the Volstead act.

That there is not the slightest opportunity for the move of San Francisco wets to repeal the enforcement act in California, makes no difference in the politics of the situation. If Elliott is to have an opportunity at success an issue must be created for him. Before the primary there were Democrats who charged that the Tammany-McAdoo issue in California was created merely to provide the vehicle for the Elliott campaign, for he was not as well known as his recent opponent, Dr. Dockweiler.

Originally the Democratic senatorial and gubernatorial clash was staged merely as a fight over the machinery of the Democratic party, a battle between the McAdoo and Al Smith factions for control of the delegation from California to the 1928 Democratic national convention.

The possibilities in a wet and dry fight, however, if one can be forced on Senator Shortridge, have appealed to some of the leaders of the Democracy, and the arrangements are under way to enliven the quiet Republican-Democratic contest in California. Wardell, the wet nominee for governor, will be thrown overboard to clear the situation for Elliott.

The Self-Sufficient Plant

E. E. Slosson in Collier's

A limited amount of this gas is inclosed within the glass? Because the plant continually makes carbon dioxide out of its own carbon and the oxygen of the air.

You see, it is a complete cycle. The plant manufactures its own food and air as it uses it. The water goes a similar round. It is sucked up from the soil, evaporated by the leaves, condenses on the glass, rolls down to the sand, and is again sucked up by the roots. If a leaf drops off by the bacteria of the soil, members of the Plant Wreckers' Union, break it up into carbon dioxide and nitrates, and feed it back to the plant. How long the plant can live and grow in its hermetical prison nobody knows yet, not even the inventor of the device.

There is nothing new about all this. Every schoolboy learns about the cycle of the elements through plant, soil and air. Yet, when he sees it here actually demonstrated before his eyes for the first time, he realizes that he has never really believed what he had been told; he has merely accepted it.

But how does the plant get food? It lives on the carbon that it gets from the carbon dioxide in the air.

But why does not the supply of carbon dioxide run out since only
